

John Weygandt

Subj: witness report: Weygandt
Date: 8/1/00 9:55:05 PM Eastern Daylight Time
From: [REDACTED]
To: [REDACTED]

WITNESS REPORT: JOHN WEYGANDT

1. Obtain full name, address, phone numbers, email and other data and record same

John Weygandt

[REDACTED]
[REDACTED]
[REDACTED]

2. Obtain brief educational and employment history relevant to the testimony (ie, government, military, intel., corporate)

Lance corporal (E-3) in the Marine Corp from June, 1995 to March, 1998 at Cherry Point Marine Corps Air Station in North Carolina. At age 20, he was sent to Peru on Operation Laser Strike from February - June, 1997 with the 2nd LAAB battalion. His job was to provide perimeter security for the Air Force to a radar facility in Peru (joint US and Peruvian operation), very close to the Bolivian border.

Now, he's a mechanical drafter and technical illustrator. Draws machine parts, schematics, does architecture. Goes to local community college.

3. Record the details in summary form of the witness' testimony, providing salient information on date, location, position and involvement at the time of the UFO/ET event or project

(Because his story is so extraordinary and bizarre, I'm providing a lot of detail)

In 1997, he flew to Lima, took a one hour bus ride to makeshift military strip, and boarded a C1-30 propeller transporter aircraft. He flew 6 or 7 hours to the radar facility, stopping once. He has no record of the location of the facility.

The radar facility tracked air craft coming in and out of Peru and Bolivia. John had been trained as a stinger gunner, in low altitude air defense. He was trained to identify aircraft, and they wanted him to be able to distinguish the friendly aircraft. The facility had underground section with computers. John believes the radar facility may have been set up to track UFOs. One time he let an Air Force Major into the underground facility and heard a woman say "we've got strange objects again..." Almost everyone there was American.

Between 4 and 5 am one morning in the second half of April, 1997, John was sent to check out a crashed vehicle in the nearby jungle. He drove in a jeep and then walked, with Sergeant Allen (E-5) and Corporal Scott, arriving at the crash site about 8 am. He had live ammo with him. The object crashed just over the border in Bolivia. He saw an egg shaped craft, a tear drop shape, crashed into rock and embedded in it at a 45 degree angle, on the side of a cliff. It was literally imbedded in solid granite. The craft had cut a 500 meter gash in the jungle like a lawnmower, on its way down. The vegetation was smoldering. The craft was 20 meters wide by 15 high. Its underside was purple and the top was a dark green. It had an indent along its middle with lights around it, one red bright light that went the whole way around. He heard it shut down and the light stop. Saw three hatches, one open on top, 2 others towards the sides half opened, at angles. He got within 100 yards or less, down in a deep ravine.

John was trained to recognize aircraft, experienced at studying different types of aircraft since he was a kid, and this craft was not from here. It had no wings, nothing to propel it. There was a bizarre liquid leaking which was all over the place. It smelled very bad, acidic like ammonia, and burned the nostrils. It was syrupy, like jelly, and clear. It was in the stream, eating the vegetation, got on his arms, boots and clothes. It ate the dye and weakened the fabric and ate some of the hair on his arm. It felt frigid. He became nauseous and vomited. He felt high, felt like his mind was affected. He felt there were beings trapped inside which he could feel calling to him, like an intense feeling throughout his body that he couldn't understand. They were telling him they were not here to harm anyone, asking him to approach, soothing like a mother to a child. There was a static that filled his head, like on the TV.

The craft was damaged, had gashes in it. There was one in the bottom rear from where the strange liquid poured out. John says this looked like it did not come from the crash, but likely from a missile. There were hawk missiles in Peru -- surface to air missiles, short to medium range. The hawk is radar directional, and explodes near the target, releasing small metal balls from the warhead which it blows towards the target. The Peruvians also had blowpipes -- mounted guns known as M160's which they bought from the US. And they had blowpipes from the British.

He could only see one side of the object. The other two told him not to approach, said "Let's get out of here," then they saw 3 or 4 helicopters coming. They took a trail up out of the ravine, to find their radios. Men in black, dressed like a SWAT team, showed no I.D. but grabbed John and took his weapons. John took a swing at one of them; they beat him and restrained him face down on the ground. They got the strange liquid on them. They handcuffed him and put him on a stretcher. Guys in white suits with helmets landed on the site, with suits like space suits marked DOE, made him strip to his underwear and took everything on his person. Put him in a Kayawa (sp) helicopter (small, very dark green) to a camp where he put on fatigues. The Air Force Colonel there told him he saw nothing and this was classified, told him he had to sign papers. He refused and they said that his body would be hard to find out there in the jungle (death threat). He signed statement that to protect the national security of the US he would not talk. Was taken back to the radar base, and talked to others about this, so he was sent back to the US to Cherry Point Marine Corp Air Station in NC within a week or two. (Late April, 1997)

In May, 1997, John says he recognized that he had picked up something from the craft, something came into him. He had weird dreams, nightmares and missing time. He was sent to a psychiatrist and an alcohol treatment facility in Jacksonville, Fla. He was put on meds and diagnosed with a personality disorder. He says this is bogus and was an attempt to silence him. Had no such symptoms before witnessing the crash.

In late '97, he saw Sergeant Allen at the base who was furious at him for mentioning this and raged at John. The day after, Allen was shipped out. John was beaten up and forced to confess to using marijuana, and the CID made his life hell. It went all the way up to the Marine Air Control (MAG) Group 28. He was discharged in March, 1998.

His phone has been tapped, he received a series of harassing phone calls right after he contacted CSETI. FBI were seen at his house when he wasn't there.

He has suffered from nightmares and mental health problems since then. Sometimes he hears the same static in his head that he heard at the site. Sometimes the same emotions -- like feeling high and invincible. He can hear people's thoughts. In September 1999, he had missing time for 35 hours, followed by bleeding ears, for which he saw a doctor.

John is somewhat traumatized by this event, afraid, but wants to come forward. Said he would want to be disguised if filmed, but that could change. He has not even told his family about this.

4. Ascertain the witness' degree of cooperation : Is he / she willing to be interviewed under full identity? Under a disguise (we want to discourage this except in rare cases) ?

Willing to be interviewed, although very nervous about it.

5. Ask if he/she has corroborating witnesses to the event or project or corroborating documents and other materials

Provided details of marine training and duty prior to Peru. Names as provided above: Corporal Scott became a Sergeant (E-5) and then left the Marines sometime in 1997 because he served his time. He was a bible-thumper, probably from the North. Sergeant Allen is likely still with the Marines. Staff Sergeant Montelegra (sp) was the staff non-commissioned officer in charge in Peru (He was in charge of the 3 of them who were sent out.) Sergeant Malcolm was a friend of John's who would know about Operation Laser Strike and could help locate other guys, but doesn't know about the crash. He likely has left the Marines because he had knee problems. John does not know how to reach any of the above individuals.

John is sending documents to verify his enlistment with the Marine Corps. He has provided the name of Staff Sergeant [REDACTED] to call at Cherry Point for information on Laser Strike. Suggested calling 2nd LAAD battalion, operations S-2 or S-4, at Cherry Point.

I called Cherry Point and they gave me some web addresses for information on Operation Laser Strike.

6. Always ask if the witness has other evidence, networks, or contacts to other witnesses which could be useful to the project (they may not offer this and so this should always be asked).

None.

7. Write your own assessment of the value of the witness' testimony and credibility, and HOW the witness comes across (articulate, etc).

I interviewed him 3 times in great detail, because initially I wasn't sure about him. I knew he had been mentally and emotionally shaken by this. Some of the details he reported on the first telling of the story were different the second time, and some important information was provided the second time which was simply left out the first. He has read my narrative of his account and attests to its accuracy. Ricardo joined the 3rd interview to assess him and try and pinpoint the location in Peru. Ricardo plans to meet with him and bring a detailed map of the area. (John remembers rivers, villages etc.)

After careful assessment, I believe John is sincere and is telling the truth as he remembers it. [REDACTED] concurs. He has much detail and marine lingo, and knowledge of weapons, missiles, etc that attests to his having been a marine. John is both afraid of speaking to us and desperate to tell his story. He has told no one, including family members. I believe he is courageous in coming forward. He says he wishes he had never seen the crash because it has ruined his life.

8. Let the witness know that we will be contacting him/her later to set up a date to conduct a full interview.

Done. There will be more follow up; report may need updating.

[REDACTED], 8/1/00

[REDACTED]

[REDACTED]

[REDACTED]

[REDACTED]

WITNESS REPORT: JOHN WEYGANDT

1. Obtain full name, address, phone numbers, email and other data and record same

John Weygandt

[REDACTED]

[REDACTED]

2. Obtain brief educational and employment history relevant to the testimony (ie, government, military, intel., corporate)

Lance corporal (E-3) in the Marine Corp from June, 1995 to March, 1998 at Cherry Point Marine Corps Air Station in North Carolina. At age 20, he was sent to Peru on Operation Laser Strike from February – June, 1997 with the 2nd LAAB battalion. His job was to provide perimeter security for the Air Force to a radar facility in Peru (joint US and Peruvian operation), very close to the Bolivian border.

Now, he's a mechanical drafter and technical illustrator. Draws machine parts, schematics, does architecture. Goes to local community college.

3. Record the details in summary form of the witness's testimony, providing salient information on date, location, position and involvement at the time of the UFO/ET event or project

(Because his story is so extraordinary and bizarre, I'm providing a lot of detail)

In 1997, he flew to Lima, took a one hour bus ride to makeshift military strip, and boarded a C-130 propeller transporter aircraft. He flew 6 or 7 hours to the radar facility, stopping once. He has no record of the location of the facility.

The radar facility tracked air craft coming in and out of Peru and Bolivia. John had been trained as a stinger gunner, in low altitude air defense. He was trained to identify aircraft, and they wanted him to be able to distinguish the friendly aircraft. The facility had underground section with computers. John believes the radar facility may have been set up to track UFOs. One time he let an Air Force Major into the underground facility and heard a woman say "we've got strange objects again…" Almost everyone there was American.

Between 4 and 5 am one morning in the second half of April, 1997, John was sent to check out a crashed vehicle in the nearby jungle. He drove in a jeep and then walked, with Sergeant [REDACTED] (E-5) and Corporal [REDACTED] arriving at the crash site about 8 am. He had live ammo with him. The object crashed just over the border in Bolivia. He saw an egg shaped craft, a tear drop shape, crashed into rock and embedded in it at a 45 degree angle, on the side of a cliff. It was literally imbedded in solid granite. The craft had cut a 500 meter gash in the jungle like a lawnmower, on its way down. The vegetation was smoldering. The craft was 20 meters wide by 15 high. Its underside was purple and the top was a dark green. It had an indent along its middle with lights around it, one red bright light that went the whole way around. He heard it shut down and the light stop. Saw three hatches, one open on top, 2 others towards the sides half opened, at angles. He got within 100 yards or less, down in a deep ravine.

John was trained to recognize aircraft, experienced at studying different types of aircraft since he was a kid, and this craft was not from here. It had no wings, nothing to propel it. There was a bizarre liquid leaking which was all over the place. It smelled very bad, acidic like ammonia, and burned the nostrils. It was syrupy, like jelly, and clear. It was in the stream, eating the vegetation, got on his arms, boots and clothes. It ate the dye and weakened the fabric and ate some of the hair on his arm. It felt frigid. He became nauseous and vomited. He felt high, felt like his mind was affected. He felt there were beings trapped inside which he could feel calling to him, like an intense feeling throughout his body that he couldn't understand. They were telling him they were not here to harm anyone, asking him to approach, soothing like a mother to a child. There was a static that filled his head, like on the TV.

The craft was damaged, had gashes in it. There was one in the bottom rear from where the strange liquid poured out. John says this looked like it did not come from the crash, but likely from a missile. There were hawk missiles in Peru — surface to air missiles, short to medium range. The hawk is radar directional, and explodes near the target, releasing small metal balls from the warhead which it blows towards the target. The Peruvians also had blowpipes — mounted guns known as M160's which they bought from the US. And they had blowpipes from the British.

He could only see one side of the object. The other two told him not to approach, said "Let's get out of here," then they saw 3 or 4 helicopters coming. They took a trail up out of the ravine, to find their radios. Men in black, dressed like a SWAT team, showed no I.D. but grabbed John and took his weapons. John took a swing at one of them; they beat him and restrained him face down on the ground. They got the strange liquid on them. They handcuffed him and put him on a stretcher. Guys in white suits with helmets landed on the site, with suits like space suits marked DOE, made him strip to his underwear and took everything on his person. Put him in a Kayawa (sp) helicopter (small, very dark green) to a camp where he put on fatigues. The Air Force Colonel there told him he saw nothing and this was classified, told him he had to sign papers. He refused and they said that his body would be hard to find out there in the jungle (death threat). He signed statement that to protect the national security of the US he would not talk. Was taken back to the radar base, and talked to others about this, so he was sent back to the US to Cherry Point Marine Corp Air Station in NC within a week or two. (Late April, 1997)

In May, 1997, John says he recognized that he had picked up something from the craft, something came into him. He had weird dreams, nightmares and missing time. He was sent to a psychiatrist and an alcohol treatment facility in Jacksonville, Fla. He was put on meds and diagnosed with a personality disorder. He says this is bogus and was an attempt to silence him. Had no such symptoms before witnessing the crash.

In late '97, he saw Sergeant [redacted] at the base who was furious at him for mentioning this and raged at John. The day after, [redacted] was shipped out. John was beaten up and forced to confess to using marijuana, and the CID made his life hell. It went all the way up to the Marine Air Control (MAG) Group 28. He was discharged in March, 1998.

His phone has been tapped, he received a series of harassing phone calls right after he contacted CSETI. FBI were seen at his house when he wasn't there.

He has suffered from nightmares and mental health problems since then. Sometimes he hears the same static in his head that he heard at the site. Sometimes the same emotions — like feeling high and invincible. He can hear people's thoughts. In September 1999, he had missing time for 35 hours, followed by bleeding ears, for which he saw a doctor.

John is somewhat traumatized by this event, afraid, but wants to come forward. Said he would want to be disguised if filmed, but that could change. He has not even told his family about this.

4. Ascertain the witness's degree of cooperation : Is he / she willing to be interviewed under full identity? Under a disguise (we want to discourage this except in rare cases) ?

Willing to be interviewed, although very nervous about it.

5. Ask if he/she has corroborating witnesses to the event or project or corroborating documents and other materials

Provided details of marine training and duty prior to Peru. Names as provided above: Corporal [REDACTED] became a Sergeant (E-5) and then left the Marines sometime in 1997 because he served his time. He was a bible-thumper, probably from the North. Sergeant [REDACTED] is likely still with the Marines. Staff Sergeant [REDACTED] (sp) was the staff non-commissioned officer in charge in Peru (He was in charge of the 3 of them who were sent out.) Sergeant [REDACTED] was a friend of John's who would know about Operation Laser Strike and could help locate other guys, but doesn't know about the crash. He likely has left the Marines because he had knee problems. John does not know how to reach any of the above individuals.

John is sending documents to verify his enlistment with the Marine Corps. He has provided the name of Staff Sergeant [REDACTED] to call at Cherry Point for information on Laser Strike. Suggested calling 2nd LAAD battalion, operations S-2 or S-4, at Cherry Point.

I called Cherry Point and they gave me some web addresses for information on Operation Laser Strike.

6. Always ask if the witness has other evidence, networks, or contacts to other witnesses which could be useful to the project (they may not offer this and so this should always be asked).

None.

7. Write your own assessment of the value of the witness's testimony and credibility, and HOW the witness comes across (articulate, etc) .

I interviewed him 3 times in great detail, because initially I wasn't sure about him. I knew he had been mentally and emotionally shaken by this. Some of the details he reported on the first telling of the story were different the second time, and some important information was provided the second time which was simply left out the first. He has read my narrative of his account and attests to its accuracy. [REDACTED] joined the 3rd interview to assess him and try and pinpoint the location in Peru. [REDACTED] plans to meet with him and bring a detailed map of the area. (John remembers rivers, villages etc.)

After careful assessment, I believe John is sincere and is telling the truth as he remembers it. [REDACTED] concurs. He has much detail and marine lingo, and

[REDACTED]

[REDACTED]

[REDACTED]

[REDACTED]

[REDACTED]

[REDACTED]

4pm Mar at 9

John Walcott

[REDACTED]

~~at end of ramp~~

- [REDACTED]

- at end of ramp

[REDACTED]

[REDACTED]

[REDACTED]

[REDACTED]

[REDACTED]

until see

[REDACTED]

[REDACTED]

[REDACTED]

corner of home

[REDACTED]