Dear [REDACTED]

The Enquirer story is true except the year was 1964 not 1965. The camera system we used was capable of "nuts and bolts" focus from a point seventy miles from any object being tracked so the photos were readable. I was not then nor am I now able to relate any "conclusions" or "facts" that were captured on film. However I do have some deep concerns about information, so vital now to the future of mankind, falling into the wrong hands at the wrong time. A case in point; We had the "secret" information on "the Bomb" and the future of mankind was protected, up to now, of its further use by U.S. Also the fallout development of super weapons have been accomplished by U.S. And the answer to our successes has been more and bigger bombs built from our secrets which fell into the wrong hands because someone else found and released our secrets to those who have no concern over the future of mankind, only of their own. Haunting their development of gas as a weapon of war is also proof of their love of others. See, what I am getting at is that from all of my projects and research I have come across many instances where small groups of selected persons are working on items for advances from and published data, yet can be imagined further fallout ^{we can see} of their research.* Consider if this set scientific community did not believe, in all data you have so expertly put together, why would they'd up so many packages from Vandenberg and the Capto try to establish communication? ⁽²⁾ Your research shows only too well we have received communication, but yet have not enjoyed the two way communication we are attempting. It will come soon.

You sent me an outline, or biographical summary on yourself and your security status since 1956, and it is impressive. As you can see Barry Goldwater, for whom I have the highest respect, stated in your att # F, that he was "understandably denied" his request at Wright Patterson; And certainly his credentials and security status are higher than either you or I have --- except for specific projects --- I know you understand. Research & development has been my life and it's hard to find a field of technology I have not touched, but if I passed on my classified information, even within these technologies, it was with authority or permission and assurance it was being done to better mankind not destroy it. I am unique in being a survivor of four wars, WW¹, Korea, ^{the} Cold War, and 3 1/2 years in Vietnam and as a scientist I want to see no more human waste and destruction.

Can you see why this country would be selected for communication from other worlds? Can you see why some ones are kept secret to prevent further dissemination of mankind? And can you see what would happen if the information "discovered" fell into the wrong hands and was used against, not for mankind? We the U.S. have had such secrets in our hands and have proven our dedication to preservation. That's why you have uncovered so much information from U.S. but not all.

I would like you to touch base with two people. ^{#1} One a writer like yourself, doing work for Omni and others. You might like to compose notes on a one for one basis. The other ^{#2} a specialized technician like yourself, who I call "The Levels Advocate" will bend your ear about me, his theories on UFO's and 4th dimension prohibitions and where and when we may gain the knowledge God intended to give us to fill up the void we have never used of our brain.
