Hi Steve,

I got this last night from [REDACTED] (I told her about [REDACTED] from [REDACTED] who showed you the pictures in Laughlin.
) But there is a possible witness - an Australian Astrophysicist who worked at Papoose Lake in the '70s - more info below...

[REDACTED] has some questions about how to verify what he's saying.

Hi [REDACTED]

Thanks for your prompt reply. I'm smiling at the moment, because the lady [REDACTED] you talk of is closely associated with Denise - who is the colleague who the witness I wrote about first approached.

Denise actually told me of how [REDACTED] handed out Disclosure Project DVD's to staff at Pine Gap. I think she's my hero (heh heh). Small world isn't it!

We have obtained the potential witness name and email address and will be contacting him again soon.

From what he has told Denise, we have ascertained the following information:

He is an Australian astrophysicist and scientist, who worked some levels 'below ground' at 'Papoose Lake' in either '72 or '74 (Denise wasn't sure which or whether it was between these times) and he can now name a further two Australian Scientists currently working there.

He claims that whilst he was there, he was given a 2 meter 'engine' which was black in colour and 'foil like' in consistency, which had two long protrusions - one at each end. He felt that the technology 'wasn't ours' and was potentially E.T. I'm not sure exactly what his role was, as Denise did not elaborate other than other than 'he worked with hardware'.

He appeared prepared to speak further with [REDACTED] about what he experienced, however he only gave a contact email address. She has not wanted to contact him until she had run it past me, as she doesn't want to 'scare him off' and wanted to know exactly what type of questions to ask. She is used to interviewing people, and felt that his responses to her questions were appropriate and that he seemed authentic.

I guess if there was someone that Disclosure can liaise with who possibly worked at the location in the early 70's who may even know the names of who was in charge at the time etc, we could authenticate some of his story.

I will forward your response on to Denise, but if there's anything else that comes to mind, we'd really appreciate your input.

Thanks again [REDACTED]

If and when we do hear back, and this person's story seems to 'check out', I'll let you know immediately.
