Steven,

I have spoken with [REDACTED] again and given him a copy of your last correspondence. He is pleased with your offer for his possible inclusion in some way in your project. However, his (hideout) status at present does not let him feel free to contact you electronically in any way. I dislike this cloak & dagger approach, but have nothing else to offer you. What Tony is very strong on doing is to meet you in person one-on-one for further discussion whenever you come to Florida.

I live in Largo, which is ~ 20 mi. West of Tampa (near [REDACTED]'s residence). If this location can be folded into your future agenda during your planned visit, I will host the meeting site for you at my home. [REDACTED], you, & others you may want to attend, may be included. Obviously, this presumes that this location will be suitable to you and your visit plans. Other location(s) nearby are also OK, I believe. Please advise me of the acceptability of this seemingly unusual requirement or [REDACTED] part as well as your tentative or firm visit plans to Florida.

Thanks [REDACTED]
