Dear [REDACTED]

My wife and I are living out of a small mobile home while our new home is being constructed on our property. For that reason, we have many items in storage among which is my pilot's log book which would remind me of the exact date of the event. For now I can only recall that it was a perfectly clear night with a blanket of stars overhead. Anyway, the details as I recall without the prompting of my log book, are as follows:

I was an Air Force 1st Lt. serving as an all-weather interceptor pilot in the 10th Air Division, 64th Fighter Interceptor Squadron, operating out of Elmendorf AFB, Anchorage, Alaska from 1954 thru 1956. My radar observer, [REDACTED], and myself were launched on a "weather hop" which consisted of a flight around an area encompassing probably 200 or so nm square, maybe more. Our mission was to report weather observances from a flight level of usually 25,000 ft. We usually departed around 0100 and arrived back perhaps an hour or so later. We departed from Elmendorf AFB, 64th FIS. We had virtually completed the flight and were about 50 or so miles southwest of Anchorage and had just passed Kenai on the east edge of the Cook Inlet, heading towards Anchorage. We were level at 25,000 ft. The night was so bright and clear that I had gradually turned my cockpit instrument lights lower and lower as my eyes adjusted until they were completely off (hence no canopy reflections). Unfortunately my radar observer was fighting boredom and had selected ground map on the radar and was "painting" the coast line as we flew along it. I say unfortunately as he was unable to quickly go into an inflight search mode to try to paint the unknown. I became aware of an object at about my 11:00 position. It was clearly seen as a dark object without lights and with what appeared to be an exhaust plume behind it and several times longer than the length of the object. The UFO was heading approximately 180 degrees from my heading and such that its flight path took it to my left and somewhat higher in elevation. Somewhere in this time frame I started to transmit the sighting to our UFO frequency. Our instruction was to select the channel and start transmitting. We were not to wait for response or acknowledgement from the ground. I reported my sighting in detail as it was happening. When the object reached a point across from my position, the plume suddenly reduced in length from several times longer than the craft to about its same length. I recall thinking that it must be slowing down as if it also had seen me. Although it seemed not to be illuminated, the UFO remained clearly visible against the starlit sky. It was "cigar shaped". I have no idea as to its actual size as I don't know how close it was to me. If it was "aircraft size", it would have been a few thousand feet above me and perhaps a half mile or so away. I also estimated the speed (based on "aircraft size") as approximately 2000 mph. I maneuvered the F-89D in a hard left climbing turn in order to keep the UFO in sight as it passed. I also had asked my radar observer to try and make radar contact. He was unable to do so. I also don't think that he was able to make visual contact as he had his face in the radar screen and was blinded for several seconds. I watched the object continue in a straight and level flight path passing almost directly over Kenai proceeding SW.

I was asked to be available for debriefing when I landed. It probably took no more than 5 to 10 min. max for me to land. I was told to park at the 65th (or perhaps 66th) FIS and not the 64th from where I had departed for the debriefing. When I taxied in for parking I was met by a Bird Colonel in dress uniform. I was quite impressed that someone would be able to respond in the short time frame and a ranking officer to boot. I believe that he introduced himself but I do not recall his name. The debriefing took perhaps a half of an hour. I heard nothing further about the incident except my squadron officers had somehow been made aware as there was an announcement made in a general meeting that was held a few days later for some other purpose. It was not treated as a "big deal".

It has been about 45 years since this occurred so my recall is probably not complete but I can certainly visualize the incident as I typed this response.

Hope that this helps

Thank you for the interest. I wish that I could participate but this is a most busy time for us. We are having a home built and I am doing all of the interior. It has taken longer than expected to get to the home ready for interior finishing and winter is coming on so my wife and I spend every available hour working on it so hopefully we can occupy it in the near future. We also run an aircraft consulting business out of our home and work about half of each day on that. I would not be able to make either of those schedules. It is also quite difficult to fly out of here. We have to commute to a neighboring city and sometimes as far away as Portland (4 1/2 hrs) in order to make connections that are close to being reasonable in price.

I am interested in Dr. Greer's work and enjoy the information received from time to time.

Thank you,
