

Subj: Peterson, Woolsey, Collyns, Firmage et al.

Date: 9/24/2002 10:08:04 PM Eastern Daylight Time

From: [REDACTED]

To: [REDACTED]

<http://arlingtoninstitute.org>

---

http://www.arlingtoninstitute.org/about\_tai/john\_petersen.html

About John Peterson

---

http://www.gbn.org/public/gbnstory/network/staff/ex\_collyns.htm

Napier Collyns

[REDACTED]

[REDACTED]

Napier Collyns is a cofounder and managing director of Global Business Network. He is also a senior associate of Cambridge Energy Research Associates, a public director of the New York Mercantile Exchange (NYMEX), editor-at-large for Doubleday Currency, a board member of Meridian International Institute and the Strategic Management Society, and a participant of the ICIS Forum.

Before joining GBN, Napier spent more than 30 years in the international oil industry, mostly with companies of the Royal Dutch/Shell Group in Venezuela, Nigeria, New York, London, and The Hague. He was a senior member of the small team at Shell that developed scenario planning in the early 1970s under the leadership of Pierre Wack. From 1974 to 1979, Napier was head of planning for Shell companies in Europe. From 1979 to 1986, he was vice president of Scallop Corporation in New York, responsible for planning and public affairs. During this time he was also a director of the Venezuelan American Chamber of Commerce, the British American Chamber of Commerce, the Council of the Americas, the American Geographical Society, the Issues Management Association, and the International Center in New York. He was also a member of the Tarrytown 100.

From 1986 to 1988, Napier was director of public affairs for Atlantic Refining & Marketing in Philadelphia. Since 1988 he has been scenario consultant to the Californian Energy Commission and has helped the national oil companies of Saudi Arabia, Kuwait, and Venezuela, as well as major international oil companies and electric utilities, to develop their own scenario planning processes. Napier has master's degrees in history from the University of Cambridge and Brown University. He was a consultant to the eight-part public television series, Oil, and to Daniel Yergin's Pulitzer Prize-winning history of the oil industry, The Prize. Napier resides in New York City, Berkeley, and London. He is married with five sons and nine grandchildren.

http://www.arlingtoninstitute.org/about\_tai/board\_of\_directors.html

Arlington Institute Board of Directors

Napier Collyns, cofounder of Global Business Network. He is also a senior associate of Cambridge Energy Research Associates, a public director of the New York Mercantile Exchange (NYMEX), editor-at-large for Doubleday Currency, a board member of Meridian International Institute and the Strategic Management Society, and a participant of the ICIS Forum.

Colin Crook is the former Chief Technologist of Citicorp, where he managed one of the world's largest private global information networks and intranets. He is a member of the IEE (UK), IEEE, ACM (USA), the New York Academy of Sciences, Senior Fellow of the Wharton School and Fellow of the Royal Academy of Engineering (UK), (elected in 1981). Mr. Crook has served on various US National Academy advisory committees and study projects including the committee to establish a national cryptography policy. He leads the current NRC research team on financial R&D. He is a board member of Onsett International in Cambridge, Mass, and serves on the Advisory Board's of Warburg Pincus, New York and Rein Capital, New Jersey. He has advised various US government agencies including the Dept. of Defense and lectures widely around the world.

Jack DuVall, Director, International Center on Nonviolent Conflict (ICNC), and Principal, Mars Hill. ICNC is a non-governmental organization that develops and promotes the use of civilian-based, nonmilitary strategies that lead to the establishment of democratic self-rule and human rights. Mars Hill specializes in the development, marketing, production and distribution of nonfiction television programming for public and cable broadcast, and in seeking sponsorship and philanthropic support for important causes in the public interest. Most recently he was executive producer of the PBS series, "A Force More Powerful: A Century of Nonviolent Conflict", and was co-author of the companion book of the same name, published by St. Martin's Press. Prior to ICNC and Mars Hill, he had over twenty years of experience working in public television, higher education, industry associations and federal agencies. He was Vice President for Program Resources of WETA in Washington, D.C., the Director of Corporate Relations of The University of Chicago, the Director of Public Affairs of six national business trade associations, and Chief of Industry Compliance Branch/Cost of Living Council, Executive Office of the President, during the Nixon and Ford Administrations.

Joe Firmage, CEO, Project Voyager, Chairman, International Space Sciences Organization, Principle, Intend Change, former Chairman & CEO, USWeb Corporation. ISSO formally launched its science operations in July 1999 and will be releasing a number of book, film, and interactive public education productions through 2001 and beyond. Firmage was formerly with Novell as VP of Strategic Planning for Novell's Systems Group, the company's core $1.2 billion business unit. Prior to joining Novell, he was founder and CEO of Serius Corporation a developer of object-based programming tools for PC developers. Serius was funded in 1989, raised over $7 million in funding and was acquired by Novell in 1993 in a transaction valued at $24 million.

Betty Sue Flowers is an award-winning English professor at the University of Texas at Austin, as well as a poet, editor, and business consultant. Her publications range from poetry therapy to the economic myth, including four television tie-in books in collaboration with Bill Moyers, among them,

Joseph Campbell and the Power of Myth. She hosted "Conversations with Betty Sue Flowers" on the Austin PBS-affiliate, KLRU, and has served as a moderator for executive seminars at the Aspen Institute for Humanistic Studies, consultant for NASA, member of the Envisioning Network for General Motors, Visiting Advisor to the Secretary of the Navy, and editor of Global Scenarios for Shell International in London and the World Business Council in Geneva, Switzerland (on global sustainable development and, most recently, on the future of biotechnology).

George H. Kuper, President, Council of Great Lakes Industries (CGLI) is a recognized leader in the national effort to establish a productivity growth policy. In 1975, he was nominated by President Gerald Ford and confirmed by the US Senate to serve as executive director of the National Center for Productivity and Quality of Working Life. In 1978, he joined the General Electric Company. He is the former executive director of the Manufacturing Studies Board of the National Academy of Sciences and one of the principal founders of the National Center for Manufacturing Sciences. Prior to joining CGLI, Kuper spent six years as President of CEO of the Industrial Technology Institute. He has also been the founding principal in four corporations and director of five additional companies.

Richard M. Sawdey, Hoogendoorn, Talbot, Davids, Godfrey, & Milligan, Attorney at law concentrating primarily in estate planning, small business representation and executive compensation. He is also experienced in severance arrangements and not-for-profit corporations.

The Honorable R. James Woolsey, Shea & Gardner, former Director of the Central Intelligence Agency. Besides serving as Director of Central Intelligence, Mr. Woolsey has served in the U.S. government as: Ambassador to the Negotiation on Conventional Armed Forces in Europe (CFE), Vienna, Under Secretary of the Navy, mid General Counsel to the U.S. Senate Committee on Armed Services. He was also appointed by the President as Delegate at Large to the U.S. / Soviet Strategic Arms Reduction Talks (START) and Nuclear and Space Arms Talks (NST), and served in that capacity on a part-time basis in Geneva. During military service in the U.S. Army he served as an adviser on the U.S. Delegation to the Strategic Arms Limitation Talks (SALT 1), Helsinki and Vienna.

---

http://meridianinternational.org/members\_and\_fellows.htm
Meridian Fellows

Member-Directors:

Walter Truett Anderson, Ph.D. [REDACTED]

President, World Academy of Art and Science

Editor and columnist, Pacific News Service

Daniel Coates, Ph.D. [REDACTED]

President and CEO, Scenarios for the Future

Former senior advisor to the Prime Minister of Canada

Napier Collins [REDACTED]

Joint Founder and Managing Director of Global Business Network (GBN)

Former senior executive with Royal Dutch/Shell Group

THE FOUNDERS

Peter Schwartz, futurist and business strategist; author of The Art of the Long View, When Good Companies Do Bad Things, and The Long Boom; former head of scenario planning at Royal Dutch/Shell in London, and director of the Strategic Environment Center at SRI International

Jay Ogilvy, author of Living Without a Goal and China's Futures, professor of philosophy at Yale and Williams, and past head of SRI's Values and Lifestyles research

Napier Collyns, networker extraordinaire, a 30-year veteran of Royal Dutch/Shell, responsible for planning, public affairs and human resources

Stewart Brand, writer, futurist, and inventor of ideas; author of The Clock of the Long Now, How Buildings Learn, The Media Lab, and originator of The Long Now Foundation, the Whole Earth Catalog, CoEvolution Quarterly, and The WELL computer network

Lawrence Wilkinson, multi-media innovator; current vice-chair of Oxygen Media and former president of Colossal Pictures

Also instrumental in GBN's creation were several key colleagues in Europe: Kees van der Heijden and Arie de Geus, both former heads of Group Planning at Shell, and Bo Ekman, a consultant and former Volvo executive.

[REDACTED]

Headers

[REDACTED]