XXXXXX couldn't sleep, had a sense of fear that she has never had while living in Crestone. After turning the lights on and checking the living room, she went back to bed and observed 12 - 15, 3 1/2' - 4' grey-type entities come through the eastern wall of her bedroom, just after she had lay down in bed. "They had huge almond eyes, were slightly built and bald. When they were entering the room, they "looked like water, you could see right through them" They seemed to her to be "completely indifferent", but "coldly curious." They didn't seem hostile." She has never had an experience like this before and has never been interested in UFOs. "My feet are firmly planted on the ground, I was not imagining it!" She didn't smell anything, the beings had nothing in their hands. They "glided in unison." Witness submitted drawing of the beings. 5 or 6 minute duration before she asked them to leave. They left the same way they entered.

XXXXXX While driving east on Road T, sees a "V-formation" of three circular craft headed from the mountains west out over the valley. She stopped the car, got out to get a better look. The craft were traveling at a high rate of speed until they got overhead when they slowed down. She could not estimate their size or altitude, but did see sequencing lights around the rim of the craft. As the three objects got overhead, two of them blinked out a one hovered for a couple of minutes before it blinked out as well. She noticed a humming that she felt rather than heard.

Medano Ranch foreman, Ken Klemm and a cowhand observe six "Bigfoot truck-type" sets of lights near Sand Creek after lights approached Medano Ranch hand's house close enough to make his dogs bark.. Both tried to get close to the lights, but were unable to get close enough to positively identify. A thorough search of the area the following morning turned up no tracks whatsoever. Lights seemed to be following the terrain but did not exhibit off-road headlight vibration. Klemm thinks the lights are "hovercraft." Lights when seen always appear to be 8 - 10' off the ground and never leave any tracks.

Cattle mutilation reports & unexplained phenomena increase in Southern Colo.

By Christopher O'Brien

After a cessation of activity in south-central Colorado in June and July, the mystery surgeons are back for a potentially busy fall harvest.

A large 3 year bull belonging to Eddie Medina was discovered mutilated under powerlines, Tuesday August 3, by Huerfano rancher, Jerry Wood, 10 miles east of La Veta Pass on Silver Mountain in Huerfano County. This location is forty miles southeast of Crestone, on the eastern side of the Blanca Peaks.

The animal was examined by a nurse and Animal Mutilation Probe researcher Dave Perkins who described the incisions as "perfectly round surgical cuts." The bull showed "classic" mutilation wounds, rectum deeply cored, genitalia removed down to the belly and the bull was apparently drained of body fluids. Droplets of blood were observed by Perkins near the tear ducts as was "bloody drool."

Between Wednesday the fourth and Saturday the fifth the mutilators apparently returned, and surgically removed a nostril and ear down to the skull. According to a now vigilant Mr. Woods (who is renting pasture-space to Mr. Medina,) the bull has still not been touched by predators, and the eyes are still intact.

A "dark military-type helicopter" was seen Monday afternoon, the 9th, by the Wood family who observed it flying low over the pasture where the bull was found the following day. This sighting was one of many helicopter sightings reported by Huerfano and Saguache County residents during the first two weeks of August.

Great Sand Dunes both observed six unexplained sets of lights moving on the south side of the Sand Creek drainage. The ranchers and Great Sand Dunes National Monument rangers have observed these strange lights numerous times in the past three years, and have never been able to identify them.

The lights appear to travel 10 - 15 feet above the ground, are completely silent and according to the ranch foreman, who was a professional tracker for seven years, "I have never found tracks. If they were moving on the ground I would be able to tell; they would leave some sort of tracks." The rancher is understandably puzzled. "They travel over the ranch roads out here but don't open any gates," he stated.

He has his own theory as to who might be responsible for the unexplained craft. "I think they are military hover craft, or something." Two additional witnesses observed the lights on August 8, two miles south of the Sand Dunes Oasis and video footage was obtained.

As a result of the recent upswing in sightings and aerial activity on the Saguache/Alamosa County border, both county sheriffs departments are keeping an active watch on the area. Sheriffs Drury and Pacheco are coordinating reconnaissance efforts with area residents.

These mutilations and sightings indicate a continuance of the increased levels of anomalous activity our area has been experiencing over the past nine months.

Here in south-central Colorado during years of increased sighting and mutilation activity, the phenomena follows an active spring, with a very active fall.

If patterns from past outbreaks of cattle mutilations and unidentified lights and craft are any indication of a current trend, we in the San Luis Valley are in for a disturbing fall.

A second possible mutilation during the second week of August near Aguilar, Colorado is being investigated by mutilation expert, Los Animas County Sheriff Lou Girodo.

Over 20 witnesses have seen and reported unexplained aerial phenomena in southern Saguache County over the past six weeks. These sightings cannot be attributed to nighttime mining activities by Challenger Gold in the vicinity of Polk and Sand Creeks, two miles north of the northern boundary of the Great Sand Dunes National Monument.
