

The DISCLOSURE PROJECT

July 6th, 2001

UN Secretary-General
United Nations Headquarters

Dear

Enclosed please find important briefing materials regarding classified projects connected to extraterrestrial intelligence and UFO events.

The Disclosure Project has identified over 400 top -secret military and government witnesses to such projects and UFO events. We are in the process of releasing this information and testimony to the public and feel that as an important world leader you should be thoroughly briefed on the matter.

The subject has the most profound implications for the future of the human race. We can prove that rogue, unacknowledged and constitutionally illegal projects are holding back from humanity the definitive solutions to the energy, environmental and global warming problems. These are connected to UFO technologies that have been developed within these classified projects. Once released for peaceful applications, these technologies would replace all fossil fuel use in the world.

Of greater concern is the covert deployment of weapons systems that have tracked, targeted and destroyed objects of extraterrestrial origin. Such unsupervised projects are engaging in activities that are a threat to world security and are connected to the efforts to place weapons in space under the guise of the National Missile Defense System in the US. It is critical to world security that you be informed on these issues as they pose the gravest threat to the security and future of humanity. There is no evidence the extraterrestrial civilizations are hostile, but there is abundant testimony (see enclosed Briefing Document) that they are concerned with human warfare and weapons.

As Director of The Disclosure Project, I am requesting a personal meeting with you and your senior staff at the earliest possible time to discuss these and related issues.

We also ask that you support a general disclosure on this subject and support an international ban on the weapons in space, insofar as it can now be proven that we are sharing space with other intelligent life forms. We are also recommending that the UN conduct an immediate open investigation of this subject so that the international community may be adequately informed.

A proper disclosure of this subject will give humanity the technologies to correct the global energy and environmental problems and greatly ameliorate world poverty within a generation. Space must be preserved for peaceful activities and these new energy and propulsion systems that are currently classified need to be released for the benefit of humanity. We hope you will assist us in this Promethian effort.

Respectfully,

Steven M. Greer MD,

KOFI A. ANNAN SECRETARY-GENERAL OF THE UNITED NATIONS

Biographical Note

Statements

Kofi Annan of Ghana is the seventh Secretary-General of the United Nations. The first Secretary-General to be elected from the ranks of United Nations staff, he began his term on 1 January 1997.

Mr. Annan's priorities as Secretary-General have been to revitalize the United Nations through a comprehensive programme of reform; to strengthen the Organization's traditional work for peace and development; to encourage and advocate human rights, the rule of law and the universal values of equality, tolerance and human dignity found in the United Nations Charter; and to restore public confidence in the Organization by, in his words, "bringing the United Nations closer to the people".

Mr. Annan was born in Kumasi, Ghana, on 8 April 1938. He studied at the University of Science and Technology in Kumasi and completed his undergraduate work in economics at Macalester College in St. Paul, Minnesota, U.S.A., in 1961. From 1961 to 1962, he undertook graduate studies in economics at the Institut universitaire des hautes études internationales in Geneva. As a 1971-1972 Sloan Fellow at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, Mr. Annan received a Master of Science degree in management.

Mr. Annan joined the United Nations system in 1962 as an administrative and budget officer with the World Health Organization in Geneva. Since then he has served with the UN Economic Commission for Africa in Addis Ababa; the United Nations Emergency Force (UNEF II) in Ismailia; the Office of the United Nations High Commissioner for Refugees in Geneva; and, at UN Headquarters in New York, as Assistant Secretary-General for Human Resources Management and Security Coordinator for the UN System (1987-1990) and Assistant Secretary-General for Programme Planning, Budget and Finance, and Controller (1990-1992). In 1990, following the invasion of Kuwait by Iraq, Mr. Annan was asked by the Secretary-General, as a special assignment, to facilitate the repatriation of more than 900 international staff and the release of Western hostages in Iraq. He subsequently led the first United Nations team negotiating with Iraq on the sale of oil to fund purchases of humanitarian aid.

Before being appointed Secretary-General, Mr. Annan served as Assistant Secretary-General for Peacekeeping Operations (March 1993 - February 1994) and then as Under Secretary-General (February 1994 - October 1995; April 1996 - December 1996). His tenure as Under Secretary-General coincided with unprecedented growth in the size and scope of United Nations peacekeeping operations, with a total deployment, at its peak in 1995, of almost 70,000 military and civilian personnel from 77 countries. From November 1995 to March 1996, following the Dayton Peace Agreement that ended the war in Bosnia and Herzegovina, Mr. Annan served as Special Representative of the Secretary-General to the former Yugoslavia, overseeing the transition in Bosnia and Herzegovina from the United Nations Protection Force (UNPROFOR) to the multinational Implementation Force (IFOR) led by the North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO).

As Secretary-General, Mr. Annan's first major initiative was his plan for reform, "Renewing the United Nations", which was presented to the Member States in July 1997 and has been pursued ever since with an emphasis on improving coherence and coordination. His April 1998 report to the Security Council on "The Causes of Conflict and the Promotion of Durable Peace and Sustainable Development in Africa" was among several efforts to maintain the international community's commitment to Africa, the most disadvantaged of the world's regions. He has used his good offices in several political situations, including an attempt to gain Iraq's compliance with Security Council resolutions, and his missions to help promote the transition to civilian rule in Nigeria and to resolve a stalemate between Libya and the Security Council over the 1988 Lockerbie bombing. He has also sought to improve the status of women in the Secretariat and build closer partnerships with civil society groups, the private sector and other non-State actors whose strengths complement those of the United Nations.

The Secretary-General is fluent in English, French and several African languages. He is married to Nane Annan, of Sweden, a lawyer who is now an artist. They have three children.
