

From: e [REDACTED]
Sent: Saturday, December 31, 2016 6:56 PM
To: [REDACTED]
Subject: Re: Information Dispersal

My goodness! That false flag announcement seems to have struck a nerve! Our YouTube account was just terminated, and that's the last video we put out (it was going viral). After over 3 years on YouTube, that was the video that shut us down, lol. We're currently working on a video server of our own, and this situation has just spurred our techs into action. In the end, I actually consider this a good thing; it will hopefully be the beginning of something better, and if it was in fact the false flag announcement that got us shut down, well that says a lot.

Out of curiosity, does YouTube ever give you a hard time? Between our Facebook, YouTube, Twitter accounts, and news site, we have a following in the millions, across the globe. Perhaps that had something to do with it.

I will keep you informed of when we're able to create and share videos again. In the meantime, I still plan to write and publish reports on Dr.

Greer's work, as well as helping to get the word out on the coming documentary. I'll inform you after they've been published so that you and Dr. Greer can go over them, and ensure their accuracy, provide suggestions, etc.

Happy New Year,

EV

On 2016-12-30 06:30, [REDACTED] wrote:

> Hello EV,
>
> So good to be in touch with you. And thank you for what you are > doing.
>
> I just wanted to mention that there seems to be glitch in the > Eisenhower clip. We thought it was our crummy internet service, but > we tried watching on a different system and there was the same glitch.
>
>
> Just wanted to let you know.
>
> Best wishes.
>
> [REDACTED]