Dark Conspiracies Part 2
"Operation Blue Beam"

by Jason

Do you think this is the bigger picture of what will be told us about?

Just as newsletter 18 went out where I mentioned how things seemed a little slow, things picked up big time! More and more, I am receiving information from varied sources, regarding the workings of the "secret government" and such. Some of the stuff I get is so astounding and unbelievable, I consider it irrelevant to present at this time. However, from different sources, I am getting a similar story regarding Project Blue Beam. This, too, is pretty unbelievable, but I present it in order to make you aware enough to give profound thought if any of it becomes a reality. This is a summary of the information and much of the data and proof to back up the story has been excluded because it's like 20 pages. Most of it comes from an interview with Serge Monast, a credible author, and researcher, on U.S.A. Patriot Radio Network, and was sent to us from New Zealand.

Project Blue Beam is reported to be a NASA project that is designed to counterfeit the second coming of the Messiah by projecting laser holograms of an alien invasion, and supernatural occurrences. In this way, the foundation will be laid for those that are intent on implementing a plan for world domination and the creation of a world wide dictatorship. If it is true that it is a NASA project, I must believe that the part of NASA that is involved is a super secret section of NASA that finds ways of keeping their satellites and activities completely secret from the public leaders of NASA. Otherwise, I'd have to believe that the thousands of people involved in launches and planning of NASA activities are part of a larger conspiracy. I doubt that. As you shall see, there is much more to this plan and it develops into such a deceitful and devious plot to control humanity, that it boggles the mind, yet is plausible enough to work.

Project Blue Beam is only a small part of the larger plan that is highly psychological in nature and follows a step by step plan to undermine all the basic premises of our belief systems, no matter what they are. It follows a sound principle, too. If you can get everyone to believe what you want them to, then you are on your way to manipulating everything and everybody. How do you do that?

Step one is to cause everyone to doubt their fundamental beliefs about the origin of man, religious doctrines, and philosophy of living. Sounds like a tall order until you see how they intend to do it. Rumor has it, that the government can cause earthquakes at strategic locations, that will uncover ancient, lost, archaeological evidence that contradicts the interpretations of all major religious doctrines. The ground work for this has already been laid through disinformation campaigns and suggestions from all our science-fiction movies about alien civilizations and technologies. Planted and falsified evidence will be uncovered by archaeologist that suggests whatever your religion is, is wrong and you have been slyly deceived over millennia. This will cause most people to doubt their fundamental spiritual beliefs about God, and the biblical and other versions of the "End Game Scenario" I've often spoken of. Exactly, what the details are, I don't know.

Step two is Project Blue Beam, where laser light and sound will be used to project a dazzling show of an alien invasion which will be defeated by our governments in order to give our allegiance to our new hero's! There's more, though. This is not far-fetched at all. There's a company in Southern California that will set up a laser light show against cloud cover in order to advertise whatever you want in 3D.

Step three, is where visions will be projected into peoples minds in such a way as to cause them to see and hear each persons idea of what it would be like to be contacted by God. This is possible by using advanced ELF, VLF, LF waves (and scalar waves!), which affect a persons brain activity in such a way as to convince that person that he is hearing his own God talking to him. There is a vast interactive computer system designed to interweave "their" ideas into your natural thinking so that you can't tell the difference. At this point, most people will "know within their heart" what God wants them to believe.

Step Four concerns electronically induced supernatural manifestations that will make mankind believe that alien invasion is about to strike each major city of the Earth in order to push each major nation to use its nuclear power to strike back. The world will be on the edge of nuclear annihilation, but the attack will not come. However, this, being an extremely dangerous situation will set the premise that all nations must unite and totally disarm in front of the United Nations. Next, all the Christians will be made to believe that the reason the attack did not come is because there is a benevolent alien force coming to save the "good" people of Earth from a brutal Satanic attack. The goal is to get rid of all opposition to the New World Order by creating the belief that it is sanctioned by these benevolent aliens and that the rapture is at hand. All those who would stand in the way of the New World Order, will be picked up, killed or hidden away, under the guise of the expected Rapture, as spoken about in the Bible. But wait, there's more!

Just because our saviors have arrived doesn't mean the battle is won. Not at all, we must all be united in order to survive. In a period of just one or two nights, psychotronic and other devices will be used to project supernatural, satanic images into peoples minds; hallucinations of ghosts and poltergeists and insanity can be induced, which will cause global panic, suicide, killing, rioting, etc. After "The night of the thousandth star", humanity will be ready to implore any new "Messiah" to re-establish peace and order even at the cost of personal freedom! In other words, the majority will be willing to give up their rights in the interest of saving civilization. Anyone who would take issue with this will be seen as one of the "affected ones", or possessed, or just plain dangerously uncooperative.

How soon may all this take place? Very soon, according to Serge Monast, as early as late 1995. However, there are some other preliminaries that have to be set into place. Changing the money system is one of their primary goals. When you see this taking place, you can be sure, things will begin to occur, one after the other. Changing the money is really quite simple. This will happen in two stages. "They" will create some economic crisis that will make it necessary to change the money, "for our own protection". The first change will be to change to new currency. One to be used domestically, and another "world wide" currency. Then another crisis will be created that will fix the problems. The problems will involve corruption, cheating, and counterfeiting. These problems will be resolved by getting rid of money altogether and putting everyone on the computer. In this way the New World Order will be able to track all money transactions and know anything they want to know. "Follow the money", will indeed end up being the solution to seeking and finding anyone who is a problem and the means to stop them. You see, anonymous cash means freedom and that's what must be stopped in order to control the world.

All of this is quite abbreviated. Much of the information I have supports the reality of the technology to make it happen, the organizational structure and how it works, etc. One thing important to consider..... these guys that are at the top, do not believe in God, or spirituality, and believe they are taking advantage of the foolish religious and superstitious beliefs of the masses. It didn't take a rocket scientist to know that they could easily pull off world domination if they could only duplicate the Apocalyptic vision from the Bible. In no way, do these people believe that they are the anti-Christ and satanic minions they intend to trick us into believing. It might be interesting if the Federation decided that our shadow government's laser show would be a perfect opportunity to actually start the mass landings. Think about it. What would they do, when they start destroying their phony holographic space ships and a bunch of real space ships start showing up, only they don't fall out of the sky like they're suppose to? M-m-m-m?

How do we discern the truth?

Is Project Blue Beam true? It sounds pretty outrageous to me, but you must remember that back in the days of Hitler, rumors of death camps, and atrocity fell on deaf ears, mainly, because most people just could not believe men were capable of such heinous acts, or that the government was incapable of getting enough cooperation and organizing in order to pull it off. Is that why you doubt now? When you add into the equation the alien technology that we undoubtedly possess, the motives of power-hungry men, and their Will to make it happen, it doesn't sound impossible. In fact, I believe that if God, or the Federation or some other outside force fails to stop such a plot, it could, indeed succeed.

Can you see that regardless of what you might believe is right or of the light, you still find yourself in a position of not knowing what to believe? If they start doing this stuff, you won't be sure if the information you are channeling is coming from God or them. You might think you would, but somehow I don't think they are so stupid as to not have thought of that. You can be as deceived as the next guy. For all we know, much of what we now believe is just preliminary tests run on a small part of the population to see if they can make us believe ridiculous things. I have stressed in the past, (and some still don't get it!) that COA and myself, personally, do not believe most of the stuff we tell you about is TRUE. We recognize that we can't tell if it is or not! We believe it out of choice, and will wait to see if it is true or not. Most people cannot fathom the notion of believing something that is not true so they think everything they believe is true. It's not! Believing doesn't have anything to do with being true or false. It is merely a premise to base your behavior and goals around. If you are stuck with the idea that all your beliefs must be true, then when you find out to the contrary, you will tend to deny and refuse to face the facts. Lighten up!

Now, not being able to know what is true, which is hologram and which is not, and who's lying and who's not leaves one in the position of making a decision beyond your ability to logically work it out. What do you do? I'm afraid trusting your "instincts", feelings or intuition is all that is left. I think giving you this information is a way of giving you a leg up on it. You see most people won't doubt the reality of the hologram and won't be able to even think of any other explanation. You on the other hand, at least can think twice about what's happening.

In order to have a discerning ability, you must have a philosophy that satisfies some fundamental ideas you have about the way it should be. Let me ask you these rhetorical questions: If the world is going to be dominated by something, what's the best choice? Do you want our shadow government to be in charge? If not, then would you prefer our present government where shadow governments can still operate and will inevitably lead to failure and collapse? If none of those, would an alien government be better, and how would you know? If you say "no" to all of these choices, then what? We no longer have the time to have round table discussions and wait for the evolution of consciousness to solve the problem. If you can't make a decision on the choices that are available there isn't time to wait for something different to come along. You see, if you survive, one of those choices is what it's going to be. I know I don't want our shadow government to run things. Our present government sucks, too! If the aliens don't offer us anything better, where does that leave us? What would you fight for? Would you fight?

I don't have answers for these questions, and the idea is not to promote fear of the outcome. On the contrary, it is my intention to wake up as much grey matter as I can so when the time comes, you can think it through. Frankly, if I had to choose this minute, I certainly would give good consideration to allowing the aliens to give it a shot.
