

INTERVIEW WITH A RETIRED AIR FORCE PILOT

BY ED KOMAREK JR.

This report describes an interview that I Ed Komarek made on December 18, 1991 with the assistance of a close relative of the individual interviewed. The individual, the relative, and the location of this individual must be kept confidential to avoid official recriminations. This information is still classified above top secret and at this time has not been authorized by the pentagon for release to the public. This man who I will call Jim for the purposes of this paper checked with his provost marshal at a nearby military base to see if he could talk to me. The provost marshal told him that much information was on the verge of being released and all was due to be out in 5 or six years. The marshal told him he would check with the pentagon by computer and should have a answer in a couple of days. When Jim did not get back with his relative for a interview with me I decided along with the relative to go see him immediately. When we caught up with Jim he said that the marshal had not got back with him yet.

He was willing to talk a little though there was much he was not willing to tell us as he was getting concerned about the difficult position he was getting himself in. As he had already talked to the relative in more debth^{er} and the relative were latter able to fill in some of the pieces that he would not tell me at this time. He had been threatened in the past that the military had places for people who devulged top secret information. He said that this information was classified at the highest level and that he had a above top secret crypto clearance and the need to know as he flew secret missions for the air force in Africa and elsewhere in the late 1940's and early 50's.

Jim said he was one of 59 individuals who were part of a elite groop who flew these missions. He retired on a disability in the later fifties but was kept on a retainer untill the mid 1980's.

at that time when he was in the service the military could get the crafts to lift up but had trouble getting forward motion. The military understood very little how the craft operated and least of all the powerplants.

He said his group had lost only one plane and that was probably because after an encounter with a space craft the planes instruments had become perturbed by the ships powerful magnetic fields and had come on to the runway from the south when it was supposed to come in from the north. It blew up in a ball of fire at the end of the runway. Jim said he was never ordered to fire upon any of the saucers yet said it was easy to shoot them down even using sidewinder missiles he had heard. The only time he knew that the military shot at the spacecraft and there occupants was when they were where they weren't supposed to be. Like over military installations. Jim had heard of one plane that was disintegrated by most likely ultrasound.

Jim says that he has seen several film clips of crashed spaceships . and also of saucers skipping through the air like stones on top of the water. He would only talk to me about on 5-6 minute filmclip of a crashed saucer inside a hangar. The main body of the craft was on the floor and the central unit or core was on a flatbed truck nearby. The craft on the floor had a 10 foot by 10 foot hole in the side with what looked like piping and conduit hanging out around the hole. He said there was lettering and symbols inside but would not talk to me about the inside of the craft. He had told his relative that inside were many control panels, what looked like star charts on the inside walls and a large screen. He said to me that one room was still inaccessible to the military at the time the pictures were taken. The object was disk shaped and he doesn't remember if there was a dome on it as the pictures were from one angle. The surface of the craft appeared dull grey. Jim was told that the craft was light enough to be picked up by one man and that the materials were very strong and pliable but when pounded would return to their original shape. The material was extremely light. The core which he believed to be the powerplant was heavier and was still on the flatbed truck. He surmised that when the object struck the ground the heavier core punched through the wall of the craft leaving the gaping hole. There were bodies on the floor of the hangar but they were covered and they looked about 5 to five and a half feet long.

Jim says he has seen pictures of craft hovering over powerlines and bodies of water from which he believes they use to fuel their craft. Also he believes they can get at underground water. He says that the sparks that his relative had seen around the outside of a UFO were sparks caused by dust from the atmosphere igniting from the intense temperatures in the plasmoid surrounding the craft.

His sighting in the mid seventies happened as he was driving down a local road near where he now lives. The two craft which were each wider than the road came head on and as they approached his car slowed to a stop. The two craft hovered in the road ahead of his car. The craft had square windows and were shaped like a tire. The surface of the craft was as if one took golf balls and imbedded them in a surface forming a sort of hexagonal pattern. The craft had foot thick tubes around the circumference within which some kind of light energy seemed to be flowing. There were two beings of human form in each craft. They appeared to be identical with the same features and a suit of some flexible material that did not wrinkle when they moved their arms. It covered all the body except the face.

Let us hope there will be more information forthcoming from this case. It seems from some of the recent literature that some servicemen are being allowed to talk on this subject by their superiors. Perhaps this is a developing trend to allow out information on a gradual basis. I hope the pentagon will allow this man to tell his story in full without recriminations so that other researchers may verify his name and confirm his story.

His military records had been lost in a fire that destroyed the records of a large number of service men. This may account why the provost marshal had not yet got back with him on this issue. Jim said that because of his position and the need to know he had access to the above top secret files that contained information on crashed saucers, pictures of flying saucers in flight, the flight characteristics of the saucers and pictures of the occupants of the saucers in military custody. In his secret missions he and the other men were expected and did come into contact with alien spacecraft. Jim also had an encounter with two craft and their occupants in the 1970's on a road near where he lives now. There is also continuing activity around him and his relatives in this local area.

At the time he was flying secret missions in the 50's there were 12 saucers in military custody. He had seen pictures of blond blue eyed aliens that looked like us in the files. He did not want to talk about the aliens or the pictures of them. I believe he said that Dolittle had taken the pictures but I am not sure as he could have been talking about saucer pictures. He was not personally familiar with the alien types collectively known as the grays but had seen drawings and maybe pictures of them in a preserved state. I found that Jim was very well informed on these matters and most of his information had come from his experiences in the military. He was not familiar with most of the literature available in the public sector but had heard of the crash at Roswell which was one of the reasons that he was willing to talk about one of the crash film clips he had seen. I think he is seeing if he is going to get into trouble about this and may become more forthcoming in the future if nothing comes of all this. I was concerned that after the marshal got back with him he might clam up so I pestered him for as much information as I could get.

Jim talked with me about Ike's meeting with the aliens and said that Ike was given a tour of one of the ships. One craft in operating condition was given to the government at that time. He said that at 57-
