

On our return to Myrtle Beach AFB, S.C., a week later, I was requested to report to the Brig. General of the Combat Wing. The debriefing was very short. He informed me that I had broken security. He only asked one question — "What did you see?" My reply was, "Nothing!" His answer was, "You have the right answer to the question" and I was dismissed.

The incident caused me to research fully the object we had seen. Having a TOP SECRET clearance enabled me to gain valuable information that otherwise would be impossible to obtain. I could go on forever on what is considered "hearsay" or secondhand information, but for a brief thirty seconds a disc-shaped object of metallic color, 15 feet wide and eight feet deep was seen. I cannot confirm anything other than it was there.

One thing that has always puzzled me was the lack of security. It wasn't even located in the test facility of Wright-Patterson AFB. It was near the flight line having just arrived or awaiting deployment. That is just my guess.

COMMENT: Names of the officers involved in this case are withheld on PJ's request, for obvious reasons. If the craft observed by the witness was freshly retrieved, the year 1962 is significant, considering we have crash/retrievals reported in Cases A-6 in Status Report II and in B-4, in this paper.

CASE A-7: RK of Columbus, Ohio was an instructor in Gunnery School with E-4 Grade, Great Lakes Naval Base, March 1973-September 1974, and was being groomed, he said, for Intelligence School.

At first glance, the UFO in this case seems to be a military device, perhaps one of U.S. manufacturer or by some foreign power. Whatever it was, according to RK, the UFO caused enough concern to the U.S. Navy to shoot it down with a surface-to-air missile, retrieve it from the ocean and ship it secretly by rail to the Great Lakes Naval base where it was put under heavy guard.

My informant, RK, who came to my home with researcher Don Jernigan of Columbus, Ohio July 14, 1980, to relate his role in this case said he believed that it was "by coincidence" that he guarded the same object in Chicago allegedly shot down by a Navy destroyer in the Pacific.

In September, 1973, according to RK, while an Instructor in Gunnery School, he was assigned to guard the premises of a large quonset hut at Great Lakes Naval Base, with orders not to let anybody within 100 yards.

At one point while on duty he was approached by an officer in a jeep who handed him a sealed envelope and was directed to deliver it to the Commandant in the quonset hut. Passing other guards inside he was surprised to see a strange metallic craft, 30 feet long and 10 feet high, resting on a wooden platform.

"It was light silvery blue and shimmering," said RK, adding, "It tapered like a tear-drop with a flange running along its topside from one end to the other and there were no windows." With guards watching, he said, he could not linger for a better look. Delivering the sealed envelop, he got the Commandant's signature of receipt, saluted and returned to his post, feeling puzzled. Immediately coming to mind was a story he had heard from a sailor he met in San Diego, just weeks earlier while on special assignment there. Said RK, "The object was strikingly similar to one he was guarding, according to the sailor (name not recalled by RK), that was shot down by a missile between Hawaii and the mainland in June, 1973. The UFO was picked up by his destroyer's radar and came into view making three close passes, and one directly over the vessel. It was a lucky hit said the sailor, causing the UFO to crash into waters that were about 350 feet deep. According to RK's informant, the object was retrieved by a Glomar Explorer, shipped to Hawaii and then sent Stateside and finally to Chicago. A sketch of the craft was drawn by the sailor, and, according to RK, there was "little doubt" that it was the same object he had seen in the quonset hut.

COMMENT: Viewing RK's sketch of the object, it certainly was not the typical discoidal or ellipsoidal UFO. If true that the UFO passed menacingly over a U.S. warship, it seems to rule out a secret U.S. aircraft. And if it were a robot device, used for missile practice, why the retrieval operation and subsequent secrecy? Russian? Hardly. It would be extremely risky for a surveillance device to fly so close to a U.S. warship in waters near the U.S.A. When I mentioned this incident to a person who claimed to be an "Insider" (at one time at Wright-Patterson) I was told that he knew of no incident where a UFO had been shot down by U.S. warships at sea. RK described his sailor source as being a credible person. Perhaps his source was actually performing in an Intelligence role as a test for RK's later position in Navy Intelligence.
