

Subj: Existing Crash Site Materials & one Disclosure Project question
Date: 4/1/01 11:49:02 PM Eastern Daylight Time

possible
Roswell debris

new BAE

Thank you for all your past responses. I write this evening with one point for your review and one question.

First, I'm not sure how much of your focus within the Disclosure Project will deal with the Roswell crash but here is an interesting bit of info.  an AF pilot who flew crash wreckage from Roswell to Wright Patterson is rumored to have taken some smaller fragments of the wreckage. Although Captain Henderson is now deceased, I believe his wife , is still alive. I'm sure you all probably know this, but I thought it might help. You might want to contact Stanton Friedman (money grubber!) on this topic, as I recall he had interview Mrs. Henderson at some point (although I can't recall why that particular interview was conducted, probably one of his books).

Fly
BAE

My question was regarding the bulk of this disclosure project. When is it scheduled to take place? This month? Just curious so I may keep myself informed.

Thanks.

Sincerely,

