Dr. Steven Greer
CSETI

Dear Steven:

It was a pleasure speaking with you yesterday. I'm glad we had the chance to discuss our common interests and professional views towards this subject.

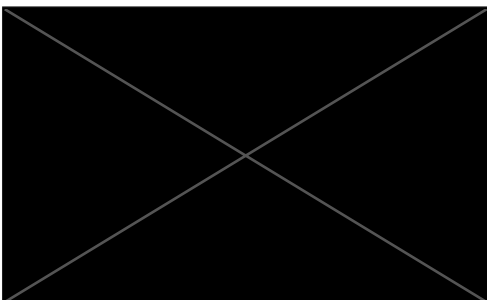

Following you will find two of the scientific conclusions based upon the laboratory testing. The DOD report is referring to the Roswell debris and the New Mexico Tech report is in reference to the implants. As I mentioned, currently the material is undergoing two additional tests to confirm the first results. Hopefully, I will have these reports before the conference.

The video tape presentation is 4:34 in length. It is a brief overview of the metals and testing. If there is one single item that will sell, or convince, an audience it is this presentation. It is a very powerful tool.

Additionally, I have a hard bound leather book that contains over 450 pages of raw test data including two scanning electron microscope analysis, full color pictures of all the material, additional scientific conclusions, medical analysis, x-rays and testing protocols. It is quite an impressive array of support material.

In all, I have over $15,000 invested in these presentation tools. As we discussed, I will make myself available, without recompense from you or your organization, to attend your conference and allow you to present my materials and findings.

I hope the addition of physical proof, especially before it hits the media, will help assist you in your efforts. I look forward to speaking with you.
