

A Tribute to Honor UFOlogist, Leonard H. Stringfield and My Connection to Him

In 1978 I had the honor of meeting through several telephone conversations a fine and intelligent man. This is a tribute to him and his excellent work in the field of ufology. Leonard Stringfield passed away in 1994 and is missed by all those who worked with and knew him. Few can match his honesty and excellence in his search for UFO/Alien truth. Len had been investigating the UFO mystery for many years having authored the books Inside Saucer Post, 3-0 Blue, Situation Red, and The UFO Siege in 1977. Len had also served in a Public Relations capacity assisting our Colonel Donald E. Keyhoe, International Director of NICAP from 1957-70. He was on the MUFON Board of Directors and also served as an Ohio State MUFON Section Director and worked in association with Dr. J. Allen Hynek who founded and was the Director of the Center for UFO Studies (CUFOS). He was the Ohio Representative for Ground Saucer Watch and an Adviser to Eric Gairy who is the former Prime Minister of the Island nation of Grenada as he was working to have this great mystery recognized within the United Nations to establish an international study of the UFO phenomena in 1978. As if those were not enough responsibilities accomplished by Len he also was the coordinator of the Early Warning for the University of Colorado study of UFOs conducted by Dr. Edward U. Condon. This was the U.S. Government sponsored UFO Investigation Study at that University. Len never stopped seeking the truth. He assisted his fine wife in raising a wonderful family. I am proud to have known and worked with him.

In my opinion, some of the most important work that Len initiated and accomplished was his work titled The UFO Crash/Retrieval Syndrome. Along with his extensive investigations into UFO Crash/Retrieval of alien starships: Amassing the Evidence-Report I II and III were released in several excellent status reports. One of which I was associated regarded his Status Report III which was published in 1982. It involved the status report for Case A-2 found on page 5. A friend of mine since childhood was the Astronomer, James Mullaney, he was the person that I had received information from regarding this case. Three UFO researchers Fred Schaefer, Linda Robinson and Gerald Miskar, who lived in New Jersey, had contacted Jim Stringfield. The three had prepared a very detailed report of the astounding events that a person known as KA (initials used for witness protection) had with alien recoveries and a UFO/Alien event. I recognized the importance of this obvious crash retrieval and contacted the main expert Len Stringfield in Cincinnati, Ohio about his investigation of it.

The superb investigation and report that the three UFO investigators, Schaefer, Robinson and Miskar had accomplished was reported to Len and he placed it into his Crash Retrieval Status Report-III. The following is that extraordinary case. The three had met a former veteran U.S.A.F. photographic expert and he would contact Leonard using a code name KA due to fear of his former military service causing possible reprisals against him and family. KA had joined the U.S. Air force in 1954. He was very experienced in photography and had hopes of having that as his field of specialty in the service. He was sent for basic photographic training to Sampson Air Force Base in New York; following this extensive training, a U.S. Air Force Officer approached him and ordered KA to pack his photographic equipment. He was being reassigned for special training at another base and not to mention it to any other person. Soon he and five other men that he had not met prior were sent to the Idyllwild Airport in Queens County, NY. It has now been renamed in 1963 the John F. Kennedy International Airport in New York City. Upon arrival the six men all boarded an unknown unmarked chartered aircraft and were all flown to Roswell, New Mexico. They landed at Walker Air Force Base. They were all soon placed with their photographic equipment into special photo training operations units for as yet unassigned duties in a large U.S.A.F. Sikorsky Chickasaw S-55 single rotor H-19 helicopter. The copter was often used in desert search and rescue operations. KA and the other team members were told nothing of their future destination. The mission was called secret.

On April 12, 1954 KA reported to Len that he and the others were ordered to prepare for a mission into the desert and informed that there had been an aerial crash. The mission would be a DoD designated mission called Rescue-4. He was told that this was a red alert and NOT a drill! It was TOP Secret. KA thought top secret, for an air crash? Note: McClelland was in touch with one of the UFO Investigators that interviewed KA that Mullaney reported had interviewed him and that person clarified a few details that may not be exactly as reported in the Stringfield Status Report III. KA immediately noticed that a non- military person who was not uniformed, but was a male, was placed in charge of this mission. This individual was giving direct and strong orders. He was puzzled by that action of the person who was apparently not U.S. military. They all wondered who this man is. KA said he recalled them all taking off and flying north along route 285 in New Mexico. They flew about 30 miles passing over a lake then changed course to the northwest. They flew about 10 plus additional miles and after clearing a small hill when suddenly a scene appeared with a variation of flashing colored lights. They were at an altitude of about forty feet when a round disc-shaped silvery craft was seen resting in the desert. KA said they then flew lower in altitude and the person in the copter giving the orders said to the pilot to ignite the copter forward spotlights. Sitting below them they all saw a round metallic saucer-like object. It was about 40 to 50 feet in diameter. It appeared to have a damaged edge and it was ever so slightly dug into the sand. KA and the others then quietly became very excited about the mission. KA said that he observed a dome in the center of the saucer shaped craft, but that the outer rim of the disc appeared to be still slowly spinning in a counter-clockwise direction. While the lights on its edge were rotating in the same way. KA said that he was puzzled that it was still spinning, since it appeared to be somewhat slightly buried in the sand. Then he observed four small bodies scattered outside the craft. They all appeared to be dead. They were all abnormally proportioned and very slight in physical build, compared to any human. They were all small in size and appearing to be about four to four and a half feet tall with extremely large heads that were out of proportion with their bodies. They were all dressed in tight fitting bodysuits that were dark blue colored uniforms. KA said he did not see any helmets. In the light of the bright spotlights each of their faces seemed to appear to look like a light color of green and the color shaded on their faces appeared to have a luminous iridescent tint to it. It was a fantastic experience and was literally unbelievable to him and other team members felt so, too.

After the copter landed KA along with his other traveling companions were then ordered to begin their photographic duties and to take as many angular and close-ups of the craft and all bodies as possible. KA jumped out of the copter. He was instantly exposed to a terrible stench that reminded him of spilled automobile battery acid that was permeating the entire area. Bright headlights of approaching ground vehicles lit up the area. As they approached the craft KA tried to get a good look at the person who was giving all the orders in the copter. That person sat in the front cockpit of the H-19 copter. He was only able to see his head and shoulders in a shadow and without much detail. He was certain that the person giving them orders was a male. The ground military vehicles arrived in the area of the crash and it included a number of large trucks. They offloaded about twenty men all uniformed in military type fatigues and some were armed with side weapons. KA saw no automatic shoulder weapons though. The men who had just arrived stopped KA and the crew of photographers and other specialists as he neared the strange craft from about forty feet away from it. They were ordered not to advance any closer. The stench was so strong in this area that one of the guards began to vomit near KA. He was then ordered to take some photographs of the crashed vehicle. He was still about twenty feet from the craft and the bodies still lying on the ground in front of him. He used a lens to zoom in for better details. The ground crew began to place ID tags on the craft. They also placed tags on all of the dead bodies and any material near them. KA began a brief conversation with a crew member. This person told him that on the side of the craft there was a small open hatchway. He said that he had looked into the craft and saw two more dead bodies similar to the four creatures outside. He said it appeared that these two entities attempted to crawl out of the damaged saucer, but died before reaching the outer area and desert sand. Then in fear, the crew member ceased discussing this intriguing part of the incident with KA. Following the unique and extensive photo session KA and the support crew he arrived with were ordered to return to the H-19 helicopter. They were all returned to Walker Air Force Base near Roswell. Prior to landing at Walker they were all ordered not to leave the copter until told to do so. As they approached the landing strip at Walker A.F.B. KA recalled that many of the military staff cars were arriving near their landing site. Many officers were among those arrivals.

As they touched down they divided KA and the other five into three groups of two people in each group. Each of these couples was placed in a separate staff car and was taken to an old barracks building number 5. KA said, "We were all taken to this building and placed in separate rooms.” KA said further,” That is when all hell broke loose during the separate interrogations of him and the other five which continued during a period of three days at another facility. We disagreed angrily with much we were told. We were returned to building 5 and placed again in separate rooms. Then four men dressed in civilian clothes and all wearing black ties entered the various rooms. They said that they were all intelligence officers. “Then three of these men exited the room of KA. The remaining man asked KA to tell him exactly in details what he had supposedly experienced in the desert. KA told him everything he could recall and he left the room. Two of the other men reentered the room and began to tell KA what he did NOT SEE in the desert. KA asked that he state his comments again. He was told again, “You did not see what you believe you saw in the desert.” They departed the room and the fourth man came in to talk with KA. He was carrying some written material and told me to listen and to pay attention to what he was about to read. KA agreed. He began to detail what sounded like serious military laws that indicated the penalties that would be imposed upon KA and any others and it would include prison at hard labor. Upon release he would then be given a general discharge. This is what would occur to KA and the team if they were to reveal any of the details of any of their experiences regarding the mission to any other person. When this man completed reading the military laws, he again left the room and was again replaced by the first intelligence officer. This procedure was practiced during three to four and half hours on that first day and continued for three additional days on April 12, 13 and 14, 1954. Later KA became aware that all the men of the crew he worked with in the desert had experienced the same grilling procedures for the same amount of time in their own separate rooms. During the time that KA and the others were interrogated KA heard through scuttlebutt (a military term for rumors) that the saucer from the desert crash site had been brought to the base and an attempt was made to secure it in Hanger 46. It was discovered that this hanger was too small for work on the large craft and it was eventually stored at what would become the famous Hanger 18, at Walker A.F.B. The day after the release of KA and the others from the interrogation, they were all flown by helicopter back to the crash site in the desert. As we hovered, one of the four intelligence officers who earlier had interrogated them pointed to the area in the desert and said, “See, I told all of you guys, that you didn’t see anything out here!” As they all viewed the area, it appeared as if nothing had ever crashed there. KA said that he could not even see the impact area! They were taken back to the base and released to their barracks. All were deeply puzzled why they were ordered to lie to themselves to protect an obvious secret of the United States of America. Shortly after we all returned to our barracks, the helicopter pilot that flew us to the crash site earlier, went to his locker and got his Ultra F-5 camera where he had stored it. KA learned that he was not authorized to have the camera in his possession. He went into the latrine area for men, stood on a commode, and began to take photos through the window of the activities at Hanger 18 where the saucer was stored. It was against his direct orders. KA was very exhausted from all the stress and interrogation activities and flopped down on his bunk and fell asleep. When he awoke the next morning the helicopter pilot, his gear, and the camera were gone. KA never again saw the pilot! The security observed around Hanger 18 was Top Secret and no one other than the top brass was observed to enter the facility. The hanger soon after went through modifications and new construction in the weeks that followed. KA did chance speaking to a construction worker who told him those stories above ground level and at a depth of what was said to be eleven stories below ground level were equipped with various refrigeration equipment, radar and sophisticated computers which were installed. KA heard the retrieved bodies from the crash site that had “not happened” were then stored there in refrigeration for obvious reasons. KA also heard some other rumors that another UFO had crashed near Bandolier, New Mexico on April 24, 1954.

It was after an undetermined amount of time at Walker A.F.B. that KA and the entire photographic crews were sent back to Sampson A.F.B., New York. Upon arrival at his former barracks his Sergeant who was furious about his absence because he apparently was not informed of KA reassignment when he immediately confronted KA. He accused KA of going A.W.O.L. He then assigned him every extra duty he could create. KA was very fearful about disclosing his reassignment area or anything that was remotely associated with the top secret saucer recovery and what appeared to be aliens near Walker A.F.B., New Mexico. He was between a rock and a hard place. After KA had been subjected to the sergeant's abusive actions for a few weeks he finally broke down and reluctantly disclosed where he had been put on his unbelievable assignments. The sergeant did not believe him. Reaching that point under extreme stress his mind snapped which caused KA to have a nervous breakdown. He was instantly placed in the base hospital where he remained for about three months. He became paranoid about his own safety. He began to wonder whether the hospital staff could accidentally or on purpose allow him to die. KA recalled that while he was in the military hospital a doctor injected him with a long needle that made him feel like he was in a drunken stupor. KA was then lead to a room where four or five people were seated around a table. On that table was a large microphone that was similar to the one that they used during his earlier interrogation in building 5 at Walker Army Air Force Base near Roswell, New Mexico. The people sitting at the table began to ask KA questions about the UFO retrieval incident in the desert earlier in New Mexico. KA being under the effects of the serum in the needle given by injection from the doctor was unable to understand how he was able to answer any questions while he was under that induced stupor and while he was also experiencing trouble with his eyesight. He was not able to distinguish the faces of those questioning him. He remained totally quiet for his own good. After leaving the military hospital KA was ordered to report in uniform to the office of the base commander. He entered the room and was facing a full bird colonel that was seated behind his desk. He saluted the officer and he returned the same honor. He rose to his feet and handed KA a manila envelope. The colonel said it was his general discharge. The officer said, "As of the date stamped thereon of March 7, 1955 you are no longer a member of the United States Air Force." KA was dumbfounded and asked, "Why?" The Colonel replied, "You were told not to reveal any information about the incident in the desert; however, against orders, you did reveal details about the incident here to your sergeant. Thank God for your sake you revealed this information to another member of the U.S. Air Force. If you had spoken to a civilian you would have received a monetary fine and would have been sentenced to prison with hard labor." KA protested and explained that the sergeant had accused KA of going A.W.O.L.! The Colonel interrupted him and said, "You are dismissed!" He had received the usual biased U.S. Military Justice!

KA told Stringfield that they saluted each other and that was the end of his U.S. Air Force career; but it was not the end of his torment. The following are additional comments associated with the interviews with KA. Fred Schaefer, Linda Robinson and Gerald Miskar who made the following comments concerning the aftermath of the saucer retrieval and the effects it had on KA. Since 1954 when this incident allegedly occurred, KA has been having intermittent nightmares about his experiences in the desert of New Mexico. During 1981 KA has had these nightmares grow in intensity and frequency. These recollections are causing him much anguish. During the UFO lecture by Mullaney that he attended held at the Edmund Scientific Company KA saw his opportunity to reveal details of his UFO retrieval experience to those with an open and understanding mind. He did this because he thought it would alleviate some of his torment. Schaefer said that during a long discussion he had with KA on December 10, 1981 KA told him with all sincerity, "I was taught to tell the truth." This was following his having related some details of his experiences. Some of which were confirming the earlier report that Schaefer related to Len Stringfield and others that were new to this case. Schaefer thought that KA was telling it as it actually happened.

Describing the crash scene KA said, "I thought I was on a set in Hollywood with the entire search lights, etc." But my fantasy was soon dashed and he said, "Because of the terrible stench in the crash area, and watching one of the military members regurgitate. The stench was like pungent battery acid mixed with ammonia." Schaefer said that KA made these comments to him regarding the desert-like landing site. While his chopper was still at the landing site yet another chopper landed. At least four men got out of it wearing laboratory white coveralls and coats. He tried to take a picture of one of the new arrivals but was told angrily, "Don't take a picture of me and only take what you were told to take." The second chopper landed much closer to that of KA's location scattering sand from its prop wash. He protected his camera lenses from damage. While KA was taking pictures of the saucer on the ground he saw a silver or aluminum-colored metallic box on the ground that was about 3 feet long and 1 and 1/2 feet high that had numbers printed on it. There were words printed on the box, too, but they were undistinguishable. He tried to take pictures of the box but was stopped by a member of the second copter ground crew and told, "Get the hell away from that box." Len Stringfield later commented that it was probably a chemical detection device. KA said that all members of the ground crew wore green fatigues with no insignia or rank of identity. There were four or five large dogs kept on leashes that were brought in onto the site by the trucks. KA saw the pilot of the chopper who also vomited. He said he experienced viewing his own pale skin looking like a ghost for several following days. He was asked how many rolls of film he had taken. His answer was, "Four canisters, two large; a total of 36 exposures, 144 photos." The camera was turret-mounted and looked like an accordion. Ultra-F-5 was the filter used with the camera. He was instructed to take pictures from all angles on and above the ground; however, he was told to take a majority of photos from ground level. He was also told to use all the film. These instructions came over the intercom. He was also instructed to leave the film on the chopper when they landed at Walker A.F.B. The officer in charge stayed onboard after they landed to secure any material brought to them or left in the craft.

KA would not disclose the names of the fellow members of Rescue Team-4 following talks with him in December. KA told Schaefer this indicating his serious concern for his safety that he had been reminded of by phone and more surprisingly by a total stranger he had encountered meeting while he was in his neighborhood drugstore. He was told that he should not talk about his part in the retrieval operation. Again KA was called separately and warned of consequences following a phone call he received from Schaefer which was made to him in January 1992. He was being watched 24/7. KA's torment from his long-ago experiences are obvious and so is his fear of reprisal which is also shared by his wife. Although he remains vague on certain issues such as his hospitalization after the incident, I believe that his reticence (or blackout) may be a result of experimental drugs or other methods known to have been used by military intelligence in the post WW II years to confuse the minds of those receiving it or by another method used to program them to forget. KA does admit, and is backed by his wife's testimony that he experiences recurring nightmares recalling phases of the incident and of the people involved. KA and family were all still living with the facts of that incident of 1954 and have remained in fear of since 1992, which was 38 years later.

NOTE: Clark McClelland made several attempts to try to contact KA. To this date of October 6, 2009 but has not relocated KA. Clark cannot blame him at all for his issues of personal safety. Stay hidden courageous KA is my words to him.

Many experts will note the similarities concerning the 1947 Roswell, New Mexico case with the notes on this similar case that actually happened many years following the famous Roswell case. Yet there have been many similar details that cannot be ignored. There are still questions whether there were at least two crash retrievals near Roswell in 1947. It is important to consider whether this 1954 case reported by KA was an event staged for the powers that be to test newer methods for covering up yet another Roswell Crash on newer witnesses or not. That must be considered. Especially since the eye witness testimony given from credible witnesses in both of these cases allude to threats from the military of extreme harm if they disclose any details of what they know happened.

There are two other cases which involves a 1946 UFO Retrieval in Arkansas months prior to the famous Roswell case I am including in this chapter dedicated in honor of Leonard H. Stringfield. While the UFO crash in the area of Roswell, New Mexico in 1947 is rightfully the paramount case in this ongoing mystery of crash retrievals, were there other crash retrievals prior to Roswell? Was Roswell the first event of this cosmic magnitude in the United States or elsewhere? I do not believe it was. I would like to introduce you to those cases now.

Within the following paragraphs are the results of my interview with another witness; besides Dr. Race, who stated to me their stories from 1946 and the activity from UFO retrievals they witnessed and how it affected them. It is my contention that having received two separate reports from witnesses who observed UFOs in 1946 that Roswell was not the first incident where UFOs were retrieved. Although it is widely recognized as the paramount case for Ufologists who have taken great extremes to document it in regard to the many eye-witnesses of the events surrounding the sightings of that retrieval of downed UFOs around the town of Roswell, New Mexico in July of 1947 and many conflicting stories from the military who exclaim that UFOs do not exist. Case in point is found in the U.S.A.F. book which is entitled Roswell: CASE CLOSED. It is yet another of their clever attempts to make the final testimony from the military about these UFO matters seem in direct conflict with civilian testimony given about what happened in Roswell in 1947. Especially in view of the fact that according to the Official Government statement that UFOs do not exist, why bother to explain what the people saw.

One of my most enjoyable campus lectures occurred in New Orleans, Louisiana in 1989. I had been invited there by the Student Union of Tulane University. The lecture topic was about "UFOs and Aliens." As I entered the campus that afternoon, there were many students I saw who had created lecture posters, banners and had newspaper articles concerning my lecture that evening. It made me feel proud to be there lecturing for this group of students so involved in bringing attention to my scheduled talk on their campus. I went to the lecture auditorium an hour early that night to prepare the slides and set up my alien mannequin that always has drawn a lot of attention when I display it on stage. It was a typical Roswell Grey ET I had constructed earlier and it still is very impressive. Many photographs were taken of my alien by the many students, the faculty and the invited local area residents who attended the UFO lecture. I presented the lecture to a jam-packed and standing room only audience of about 900 or more attendees. The hour long talk actually ended a half hour later, which was not out of the ordinary. Then I held an open question and answer session lasting about an hour and invited those who wished to stay for additional exchanges of questions.

While the students, staff and faculty were busy gathering around me; a scholarly-looking, elderly gentleman approached me. He asked to talk with me in private after the gathering had ended. I agreed and thank goodness I did. His name was Dr. Jack L. Race. He was a member of the Tulane Clinical Faculty. The students and faculty finally released me from many questions and Dr. Race and I each took a private seat outside in the hallway of the auditorium. Dr. Race began our conversation by saying he had a strong interest in UFOs and especially of alien life forms visiting earth due to an earlier very important personal event in his life. The comment he made about this instantly stimulated my curiosity. He was very familiar with my space center activities and I released to him several special incidents I had not presented to the student body. One was of these events I talked to him about was concerning the four alien crafts surrounding an unmanned orbiting Gemini capsule we placed on orbit to evaluate the life support systems, reentry capabilities, structural integrity and communications, etc. of this space capsule which would eventually allow two NASA Astronauts to survive in earth orbit. I also mentioned the names of the scientists I knew who had been at the Roswell recovery in 1947. The recovery of small-sized aliens were witnessed by men such as two former German Scientists which included Dr. Wernher von Braun, Dr. Hubertus Strughold, Dr. Robert Oppenheimer, and U. S. A. A. F. General Nathan Twining, who is known to have worked with the members of the Scientific Majestic-12 Group which was formed to investigate these downed craft retrieval sites. He was very excited to hear it firsthand from me that I know many of these people personally and have worked with those on these cases to establish the reports needed to document these types of events into military records. He said he was familiar with all the men I mentioned; but, he was especially familiar with Dr. Strughold. He had knowledge of him and his Aviation Medical expertise because of his pioneering space medical sciences work beginning in Germany With his pioneering space suit designs and research into physical strains on human beings in weightless low pressure and exposures to cold environments responsible for causing Hyperthermia conditions, etc. It was then Dr. Race mentioned to me the Dr. Strughold experiments involving concentration camp prisoners. He also told me of Dr. Strughold's association with the infamous, Dr. Josef Mengele. I was aware of that association. Dr. Race said Strughold realized that he may face war crimes. Dr. Strughold was not tried by the Allied Nations for any crimes during WW II whether or not he was guilty: never-the less, he was eventually part of the large group of German Scientists, Engineers, and Physical Medicine experts that came to the U.S.A. along with Dr. Wernher von Braun in 1946 who settled into work at the labs set up in New Mexico. Strughold was chosen as the Chief Scientist of the American Aerospace Medical Division in 1961. He received the Americanism Medal from the DAR, Daughters of the American Revolution and the Texas State Senate declared that June 15th, 1985 as Dr. Hubertus Strughold Day. The Zionist Jewish organizations attacked him and eventually he was denied all the honors he had received. Was it a fair conclusion? Make your own decision on these facts. If you are a Zionist Jew. I can to some degree understand it. He then began to tell me of a UFO Crash Retrieval he had been involved in several years prior as an expert in medicine and clinical procedures. As I recall, he said it was in the State of Arkansas in 1946. He was at that time under tight Federal Security by the Office of Naval Intelligence, Defense Intelligence Agency, FBI, and other unknown sources in the area of recovery and he hesitated to mention a region or an exact date it was recovered. He had fear of retaliation by the U.S. Federal Government sources that held tight security restrictions to conceal the event from any public knowledge of it. It could destroy his career to breach any of these security barriers he was sworn to uphold in secrecy. He said he would consider disclosing those facts later. He added that I must again contact him about this and I said I would do so. With what I have since experienced, I could not blame him for avoiding disclosures of a secretive nature he felt compelled to protect.

Dr. Race did disclose that he was part of a team of medical, engineering, scientific military and photographic experts who investigated as well as researched the complete area of the crash site for any clues showing the reason why the craft went down in the area it was found. He did say to me that the craft was hardly damaged; so to call it a crash, it was not entirely accurate. What caused it to come down? He could not say, other than perhaps the U.S. military may have a method that could cancel out the propulsion which powers such craft. This idea could be speculated; but could not prove whether these capabilities by our own government military complexes exist or not, by their study group sent to investigate the crash. Race said no visual entry hatch was immediately found. I asked, "What was the size and shape of it?" Race said his is getting dull; 1946 is far distant in his past, but he recalled it as having been shaped like a saucer with two dinner plates joined together of about 20 feet in diameter. He said it was about 7 to 8 feet in thickness or height, and believes he recalls a few small view ports along its diameter. He said there were three bodies in it, lying with one separate and two what he called bunched up with interlocking legs and arms. He said it appeared to be that those two were hugging each other in an embrace of fear. They were all very small and only about four, to near five feet in height.

They all were humanoid in shape, with a large head, with large eyes and without any ear structure as such. There were two small holes on each side of their enlarged head of what Dr. Race assumed were hearing openings. They did have two arms, two legs and two feet and they all had tiny gloved hands with five fingers. The feet were hidden in their body-tight, silver-colored suits they were wearing. He said the head was large for their small body size when compared to a human head and our body proportions.

The craft was finally and cautiously entered when they figured out what was the sealed almost invisible ingress hatch. As he watched, two military doctors, and one nurse were involved in entering it. In a short time of about ten minutes, one doctor returned to the team outside, with a strange facial expression as if he could hardly believe his eyes. Dr. Race then was hoping he would be called to assist inside it, but, was not ordered to do so. Race said he was highly disappointed. I asked Dr. Race a question, "Was there any odor you sensed?" He said, "Nothing that was pungent or disorienting as far as he could recall." He was eventually released from the duties of investigating the downed craft site where the bodies he observed were discovered. Afterward he was flown back to his home base area not saying where it was. That ended our exciting conversation. We shook hands. We bid each other farewell, and I returned to my guest room nearby. The next morning I flew back to my home in Florida.

In 1994, another incident regarding a crashed disc shaped object came to my attention. It surprisingly also occurred in the State of Arkansas in October or November of 1946. Was Dr. Race involved in this recovery or was it the same retrieval? I recalled the report that Dr. Jack L. Race had delivered to me at the campus of Tulane University in New Orleans, Louisiana in 1989. Were both incidents connected? I would pursue answers to that and other questions with this new witness with whom I had been introduced years later. He was an elderly man and is being kept anonymous for obvious reasons and was a former veteran of the United States Army Air Force who came forth and invited me to his home, which was a short distance from my former home in Florida near the Kennedy Space Center. He finally came out of the closet with his guarded event and told me the following story in detail and described the object that he witnessed while he was serving as a Private stationed at Wright Field in Dayton, Ohio in 1946. At Wright Field, he was assigned duties to keep detailed records of all the personnel that were working at the base which included Army, US Navy, service records and other pertinent data. He was delivering such information to building 18 (not yet known as Hangar 18). A friend of his was part of the base security unit there and as he entered the building the guard asked him if he wanted to see a strange aerial craft that was stored there recently. He followed him inside and to his surprise; a disc shaped object was sitting on the deck. Apparently it had not been placed under a tarpaulin or covering as yet. The tarpaulin was lying nearby as if someone or a team of people had been recently working on it. Various equipment, tools, etc. were scattered on the hanger floor near it.

It was about 15 feet in diameter and approximately 7 feet in height. I thought, hmmm, sounds familiar. He described it as two soup bowls sealed together, similar to Dr. Race in 1989 at Tulane University. It was an 18 inch in diameter divider section with 10 x 15 inch rectangular windows set at about 8 to 10 inches apart circling the disc. I asked if he would review a sketch I was drawing as a comparison (See attached drawing and details). He agreed it was very accurate. The guard told his friend that several scientists had been there and attempted to gain entry into the interior. They tried to use a diamond tipped drill bit to penetrate the glass type material enclosing each window yet the drill had no effect on the clear glassy material. There were no visual doors or entry hatches. No insignias, flags, no writing, no numbers that could shed any details on the national origin, if earthly of the strange craft. The outer metal appeared to be molded of one continuous material. It appeared to be made of brushed aluminum yet it was not that type of metal.

The craft body inside and out appeared to possess no weld seams, no rivets, no apparent joining of the 'metal' (?) skin of the craft. They both looked into the interior and did not see anything of apparent unique interest. No control panels, no seats, no hatches, no entities, nothing. A cylinder was in the center rising out of the base. It was about seven feet from the window. The cylinder was about three feet in diameter and possibly housed the power unit. The security guard became nervous after about ten minutes into their study of the object and asked his friend to exit the building. They both did. He was a Private and was a Clerk Specialist assigned to interview and classifies new recruits to their specialty school on base. He did not view the craft again. The Base Commander of Wright Field at that time was Colonel Nathan F. Twining who would later become the Chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff at the Pentagon. Twining would also be deeply involved in the military secrecy regarding UFOs, Roswell, and other Top Secret activities regarding alien crafts and occupants being recovered at various sites on earth. This witness voluntarily gave the author copies of his military records and honorable discharge. The records show that he did have an assignment at Wright Field in the year he stated in this report.

The alleged Arkansas disc that was stored at Wright Field in the mid 1940s.

So, was Dr. Jack L. Race involved in the crash and retrieval of a disc in Arkansas in 1946? I began an investigation into locating him again at Tulane University in 1994. But had no success in having his additional personal information released for my books. In early January, 2006, I again made another attempt to locate Dr. Jack L. Race at Tulane University. The university had been badly damaged by hurricane Katrina and many of its records had been damaged. I finally reached a source of medical control of campus professional information that disclosed to me that Dr. Jack L. Race had died in 1992. Another strange case as many have become in the search for absolute truth. I continue my unrelenting investigations; for 65 years of involvement in the study of this UFO phenomena.
