Re: BC dead entities - final report

*File BAE-
Possible Bodies*

Unknown date - British Columbia, Canada

While pursuing a suspect in a remote area of northern British Columbia in 1938, an officer of the British Columbia Provincial Police stumbled upon a cave containing five small dead entities. They had extended craniums, wore tight-fitting spacesuits had long fingers, and appeared to have been stranded on the planet Earth. Fearful of losing his pension, the officer did not officially make a report of the incident. Subsequently, he discussed the incident with researchers, who are planning an expedition to the remote area next month, which is near the Alaskan/British Columbia border. Access is by floatplane or helicopter from Ketchikan, Alaska, and the terrain is extremely rugged. The officer died in May 1997, aged 94.

Note: the researcher and Ed Komarek will be making the expedition. They will put the coordinates up on the Website at a later date. They are also looking for funding.
