

Flaming top reported in Georgia

Illustration by Michael Schratt and Tom Ruffin

On the night of June 29, 1964 businessman [REDACTED] was driving home near Lavonia Georgia when he spotted a bright light heading directly towards his vehicle. Suddenly, it was directly in front of his headlights even though he was moving at a speed of 65 mph. Mr. [REDACTED] could see the appearance of a "top-shaped" object which emitted an unusual sound similar to the "hissing of many snakes". The craft was amber colored in appearance, and it was spinning along the vertical axis. It measured approximately six feet high, and eight feet wide. The UFO also had a mast-like protrusion on top, with port-holes running along the mid section of the outer circumference. Flames were visible exiting each port-hole, as the craft rotated. The unknown object disappeared briefly, only to return again directly in front of his vehicle while moving at a speed of 65 mph. Then, it went over his car, leaving a gaseous vapor in its wake. Finally, the strange craft appeared for a third time in front of his car which now began to sputter and eventually [REDACTED] pulled over and stopped. The object then began to rotate more quickly, and disappeared in a "split second". An oily substance remained on the vehicle after subsequent attempts to wash it off. In addition, the vehicle's hood was clearly warped, with significant paint deterioration. Post examination of the vehicle by FAA officials at a nearby air-base revealed slight traces of radiation, thereby putting this sighting into the category of a CEII.
