

[REDACTED]

---

Thanks I got both messages. I will have to add them in later

On Jun 7, 2023, at 10:26 PM, witnesses SD
<[REDACTED]> wrote:

for witness list and facilities list

----- Forwarded message -----

From: [REDACTED]
Date: Mon, Jun 5, 2023 at 6:38 PM
Subject:
To: <w[REDACTED]m>

Hello Dr. Greer,
With the latest whistleblower, I thought I'd share a piece of knowledge with you. Do not share my contact information.

My background is military that got stuck on babysitting duty. It was during this time they I came in contact with unusual items and situations. It was only after I got out and moved to the area by chance that I realized where the area actually was located. Plus a connection to an in-law that long hauled black cargo. Several to Yuma.

As of early 1990 Yuma Proving Grounds was a major research and storage site for unknown origin material and equipment. Massive collection. This was the last time I was actually in the base. There are several underground facilities north of the main base. Some are just off Highway 95. Dirt roads that go out to junk buildings that are actually the cover for access to underground ramps and massive elevators.

This also ties into the retired (I don't remember if was JPL or one of the other in the know companies) "engine test" facility just south of Parker, AZ. and north of Quartzsite, AZ. It's on the east side of the road. I don't know if it's still there, but there's was serious testing of unknown equipment. It was remote enough so that there were no questions, but easily accessible to freeway and train transport.

Black helicopters have been often seen in the area, by the locals. Also coming out of the Bouse area. When I moved to the area as a civilian, I saw several group flights, as well as unusual equipment test flights, using Mexico's airspace. I knew when they were going to be doing one, because the radar balloon would be cranked down when it would have usually been up.

Ft. Bliss was another major research and test facility. Especially with unrestricted Mexico's airspace back then.

Hopefully this will track with your research and help expose the massive corruption.

Respectfully,

