Witness Interview by [REDACTED], 3 October 2000

1.. [REDACTED]

2. [REDACTED] was a civilian technical illustrator who did contract work for various government entities. He drew machines-"exploded" views of their working parts.

1.. In the 1960s, [REDACTED] was working in Rochester, NY and was brought photos of a machine to draw and build. It was like a huge Gould pump with things in it to simulate the gravitational field and air flow that might be on the moon so people could be tested in it. He didn't know at that time that he was working on part of the Lunar Lander. He also didn't know at that time that his phone would be bugged from that point on. (He said that a day or 2 after our phone conversation he would get a phone call letting him know that they know he's been discussing this again-not quite a reprimand, but sort of. He wouldn't say who the caller is.) At some point during this project he was taken to Wright Patterson AFB where he signed a security oath and was taken into a room where he could see a simulated moon scene through a window. Buzz Aldrin and Neil Armstrong were there, and he saw Russian space suits hanging in the room. Neva was very scattered in telling this story. He jumped around from the moon scene he saw in this room, to the film footage of the moon landing that was shown to the world in 1969, to a video by [REDACTED] that showed the moon landing to be a hoax. He saw things in that room that he didn't understand, and said, "they had technologies then that we're just hearing about now."

He doesn't know if a film he saw of the simulated moon landing was intended to fool the public, or if it was just a filming of the simulation event. He mentioned seeing things in the supposed actual moon landing footage that weren't real, like the engine thrust of the spacecraft didn't blow a hole in the sand. Because of his job and experience with seeing models of things, he noticed details that didn't seem real to him-they looked like models rather than the real thing. He thinks [REDACTED] book "We Never Went to the Moon" makes sense, and he personally believes we never went to the moon, but can't prove it. Neva said the Atlas Centaur rocket that was launched for the moon landing was too heavy to lift off, and had to be drained down to 1/3 of its fuel so it could take off, but never got to the moon. He says all the drawings of the LEM at Grumman have been wiped out, and columnist [REDACTED] measured the simulator and proved that no person wearing a space suit could get through the opening. Collier published a video of his findings, which showed men on the "moon" with the LEM, playing like kids. He saw them pass by the same stone twice, among other anomalies.

[REDACTED] went on to describe other events. In 1958 he met a woman (now dead) who, in 1947 or '48, saw a translucent disk sitting on a flat car outside of the Foreign Technology Division at Wright Patterson AFB. It had been brought in from Aztec, NM, and the tarp covering it had fallen off. She could see 2 live small figures sitting inside the translucent disk, and it was sealed. She said the military either couldn't open the disk or were afraid to. They put it in Building 828, and no one on base ever spoke of it. She said that day several scientists were present on base: [REDACTED] (responsible for building the German disk), [REDACTED] and others. This woman later spoke to Lippish's wife, who told her "This is not ours", and that the translucent material was not known to the scientists. Security was not great in those early days, and the woman said someone had even taken a photo of the disk.

[REDACTED] wasn't military, but was a pilot. He has seen UFOs 6 times in flight, doing things that looked impossible. He said they moved in a skipping motion, like a stone shot by a slingshot. In 1952, he and a friend saw a teardrop-shaped craft pass under their plane. It left vapor over the plane as it passed at a great rate of speed.

He saw possible ETs in California, but said he doesn't like to talk about it. He, his wife, and his aunt were at Marineland, when he and his aunt saw these people move like they were on an escalator, but there was no escalator. His wife was right there, but didn't see what he and his aunt saw. The woman who led the group of "ETs" had the ability to keep him from moving; he felt momentarily paralyzed. She had strange eyes, strange skin, and her suit was one piece and her hair sort of blended into it. The others were Nordic-looking and were wearing jump suits on a warm L.A. day. All their arms were linked as they glided up the stairs.

He has also had several instances of missing time in his life. One notable event happened in late Dec. 1950. He and a friend were driving from Rochester to Batavia to pick up their dates when bright lights came over the car. He stopped and they got out in 10-degree weather to look at it, thinking it was a plane that was going to crash. They lost 18 minutes of time. He also lost 2 hours at a later date, while on his way to a friend or brother-in-law's house. On his lunch hour in 1967, he was driving home when he saw 2 white objects in the sky. Because he was watching the objects, he ran into the back of a woman's car-then they both watched the 2 objects, which eventually disappeared in an instant. The woman was freaked out (and there was only a tiny dent in their bumpers) so she and her child left in a hurry.

[REDACTED] has also had several spontaneous precognitive experiences, including predicting the 1965 (or around that year) NY State Blackout. He was talking about flying saucers to a woman at work, when he suddenly said that in 3 days all the power in NY would go out, and they would be in darkness. He doesn't know why he said it-it just came into his head-and in 3 days it happened. This has happened to him many times. The first time was in 1960, when his ears started to ring so loudly that he went to the hospital. They x-rayed his head (20 x-rays) and said they saw something in there but didn't know what it was. The sound is like the highest note on a violin, drawn way out. He still has it, plus has had bad sinus trouble since he was age 8 or 9, when he also had missing time.

Neva has also met George Adamski, talked to him for 4 hours, and was shown a picture of a mile-long cigar-shaped craft.

In 1958, [REDACTED] (?) came to [REDACTED] house because [REDACTED] had overheard him talking about UFOs at work. Fallonsby told him "It's none of your business where UFOs are coming from. What we're concerned about is what they are up to."

Neva says ETs have complete control over us, and he was told we're just a large experiment. He has been collecting articles
