

TAPE 7, SIDE A:

~

Q: . . . alien presence can do the same thing that you say.

A: We can view the extra-terrestrial presence as a helpful point of stimulation or catalytic event which would lead to our own sense of oneness and our ability to identify with a deep sense of what it means to be human and that deep sense of humanity turns out to be universal. And as a universal sense, it is endowed with the potential ^{of} ~~as~~ serving as a bridge to — other life forms. The quantum leap required to go from the current fractured state of humanity to a global unified civilization and then to an inter-planetary civilization is ultimately a crisis of spirit. It is a crisis in our sense of what it means to be human and what it means to be a sentient life form.

Coming to grips with that crisis, ^{start} ~~while~~ for many unpleasant and for others — impossible, is essential. And since it is essential to our survival, it is likely that it will take place. When survival is at stake, people do ^{start} ~~arise~~ to the — potential that is within them. And when it becomes acutely clear to people on this planet that the renunciation of division and the affirmation of oneness is required for our long-term ^{start} ~~and~~ even short-term survival, that will — take place. We are very close to that point of realization as the world sinks further and further into discord ^{and} ~~and~~ disintegration ^{and} ~~and~~ environmental — destruction.

The extra-terrestrial presence will serve as an added catalyst to that transformation from division to ~~one of~~ unity, from separation to oneness.

Therefore, the extra-terrestrial presence, regardless of what people believe may be their intentions for being here, will serve a ~~very~~ beneficial purpose for humanity. That presence ultimately will be a large cosmic mirror being held up to the entire world emphasizing that we are one people and also calling on us to find that universal aspect of humanity, so that we can begin to communicate and ~~begin to~~ relate to these other advanced life forms.

Actually
Ultimately, the common ground which we share with these life forms is so close to us that we have ~~failed to~~ apprehend it. ^{not} We have ~~failed to~~ appreciate because it is so obvious. It is so close and such an integral part of what it means to be a human, that we have ~~failed to~~ ^{not} recognize ^d that it is the basis for our oneness as humans and our oneness with them. This consciousness, this rational faculty of being awake and intelligent is universal; but we neglect it, because we take it for granted. By taking time to reflect on that state, we will achieve the state of oneness with ourselves as humans and among ~~st~~ other civilizations.

In addition to the preceding aspects of the foundations for inter-planetary unity, there is another essential component. And that is the willingness of humanity to come together and think through what our relationship should be, and then to deliberate without being reactionary, and to clearly visualize what might be beneficial to us and to the extra-terrestrial life forms by entering into communication with them. We can no longer afford to be simply reactionary. We have to begin to look at this as a plan and walk through what ^{are} the implications ^{are} and what the foundations for relationship might be that can be enduring.

In this sense, this will require a global attempt to create a dialogue amongst humans on this subject, which in and of itself from an institutional point of view, from a systems point of view, will have a beneficial influence on creating a functional global society. The implications of this will be discussed in a later Chapter. But it is important to recognize here that it will require tremendous dialogue and a profound sense of cooperation amongst all the world's people in order to even begin to visualize what the objectives might be for inter-planetary relations.

Ultimately, then, the ^{necessity} ~~challenge~~ for creating peace in the Universe is one of the great challenges of our time, if not the greatest. And the promotion of universal, as well as world, peace should be considered one of the greatest callings of any human at this time in history. Because there are so many people and so many forces trying to place us into a path of conflict with each other and with extra-terrestrial life forms, ~~that~~ there is an acute need for people of good will to come forward and begin to discuss the significance and the importance of promoting universal peace.

The promotion of universal peace and universal inter-planetary relations is needed acutely now. And, in fact, many people, when we first began discussing this issue, would say, ~~aren't~~ you really quite far ahead of the game? Isn't this a little bit premature? And the answer is ~~no~~. It is actually late. It is 1 minute before midnight, and the clock is ticking. And there is an extraordinarily acute need for peace makers and bridge builders to emerge from humanity, to not only create peace and understanding on this planet, but to begin to elucidate the foundation of peace and relations between Earth and these other planetary societies. The failure of humanity to do this and to take responsibility for it will result in the abdication of that responsibility to covert and militaristic interests, which are certainly going to lead us into a less than beneficial outcome, if not into a completely ruinous situation.

So, the promotion of peace amongst peoples, whether they be various peoples on this planet or humanity and other intelligent life forms, is one of the greatest challenges and needs of our time. Ultimately, we may become overwhelmed at the seeming impossibility of these tasks and these challenges. And as we look at the chaos in the world around us and the disintegration of our social systems and institutions and our morals and our environment, it becomes almost overwhelming. But we have to remember one very important point, and it is an old cliché, that it is darkest before the dawn.

But within the field of quantum mechanics and in the field of what are known as physics phase transition, there is another analogy which is even more useful. And it is this: that in the field of quantum mechanics, an area of study has been that of super-fluidity and super-conductivity. And looking at the question of super-fluidity, an experiment can be done, where helium is put into a container and cooled to absolute zero (which is -273.16°C . I believe). As these molecules of helium begin to approach absolute zero, it becomes a very chaotic field. As it approaches a phase transition, from one phase of existence to super-fluidity, the molecules of helium become chaotic, roiling, boiling; but there are islands of coherence that evolve. And those islands of coherence are molecules that are becoming coherently aligned. When approximately 1 percent of them reach coherence, [fingers snapped] the entire field reaches super-fluidity, instantly. This is known as a phase transition and it is a quantum leap from one state to another. But just prior to that state of perfect coherence (and it should be emphasized at this point that the characteristics of that entire container and every molecule in it takes on a whole new quality and becomes almost magical in their properties. [?] they flow up and over and through things. There is the ~~greatest~~ ^{biggest} amount of violent, ~~chaotic~~ ^{unusually} behavior just before that phase transition.

~~[to Steve: Should punctuation be to catch your meaning: magical in their properties; they flow up and over and through things), there is . . . ?]~~

We are at that point of phase transition in human society. And as we approach the point of actual transition, the ~~chaos~~ ^{confusion} will increase. It is not important to worry about the ~~chaos~~ ^{it}. It is important to look at what is driving the phase transition, and that is the coherence, the alignment of the molecules. In this sense, we can view that as to coherence and the vision of humans, who in their coherent state in working for peace and working for universal principles, will reach a critical mass, or a threshold, where a transition will then ensue. And it doesn't require 100 percent of humanity, or 50 percent, or 20 percent. It probably only requires 1 percent.

And so we should be concerned not with the chaos, or even with the 99 percent of madness, but with attempting to find islands of coherence to reach that critical threshold wherein the potential will suddenly manifest for the entire field of Earth civilization to transition to a higher state of functioning. We should then ask ourselves, are we part of the chaos, or are we part of the growing coherence. And all that we can ultimately be responsible for as individuals is being part of that coherence and part of, therefore, the solution.

When it reaches a critical mass or threshold, the rest will take care of it. explain

Many have explained it as the 100th monkey effect, where in a society of monkeys on an island, once a certain number begin to learn a certain pattern of behavior or new skill, spontaneously it propagates to every — monkey on the island. There is this non-local aspect of even our societal nature. dragged And so we should look to the potential of what can be, and not be one drag down by what has been and what we fear could be, ↑ through the field — of chaos ✓ and look instead to this period of coherence.

Are there any questions at this point? Because I am at a point of reflection.

[Tape stops, then starts again.]

? . . . of creating universal peace, is perhaps the greatest one in the history of humanity. And with courage and one with vision, there is no doubt that we — will attain that state. The very great enemy of this is despair and hopelessness ↑ and viewing what is seemingly impossible. one And so, we must — empower ourselves and the world to see what is possible, rather than what is impossible. Because there is no doubt that possibility of a global civilization is real, but we will need to seize that opportunity and create it.

Q: It might be useful in this context to provide some examples of those islands of coherence.

A: ~~The islands of coherence are numerous. There are people all over~~ ^{They} ~~the world, for example, working for world peace and understanding; There~~ ^{are} ~~are people who are working towards solutions to the environmental crisis.~~ ^{others}

~~There are individuals and institutions which are attempting to eliminate~~ ^{There} ~~prejudice, racial prejudice, sexual bias, hatred, enmity. There are a small,~~ ^{at} ~~but growing, number of people attempting to create a dialogue of~~ ^{are} ~~understanding about the extra-terrestrial issue. And these sources of~~ ^{probably} ~~inspiration are important, but maybe are secondary to another wave of~~ ~~activity that is going on in the spiritual realm, where increasing numbers of~~ ~~people are recognizing the value of the universal state of mind and of the~~ ~~potential for spiritual development and the unfoldment of human potential.~~

~~And all of these efforts and groups are moving along and are riding a~~ ^{Due} ~~universal current, And the universal current which is flowing - and this is~~ ~~an incredibly essential point of this, and which is going to be irresistible - is~~ ~~that of increasing states of oneness and increasing states of unity. This is~~ ~~another way of saying increasing love in the world, because love is, in its~~ highest manifestation, oneness. And the ultimate act of love is the sacrifice of self to another. ^{Due} And the experience of universal mind requires the leaving of self behind and the ^{immersion in} ~~emersion~~ of the ocean of being. This is the ultimate and highest act of love. So that groups which are pursuing spiritual realizations and growth are very much a part of the solution and are these ^{part of} islands of coherence, as are ^{the} other groups ~~as were~~ mentioned.

Q: One person can make a difference.

A: Yes. There is a wonderful saying, "They also serve who sit and meditate, not just who stand and wait."

And the ability, ^{Due} an analogy needs to be made here, that individuals tapping universality have an effect throughout the entire Universe, and particularly throughout the ~~entire~~ world where they ^{live} ~~are~~ living. This can be likened to something very significant. You can function, say you are trying to affect a body of water, a large body of water. If you splash on the surface of it, it has a limited effect, although the ripples certainly go out to the far shore.

But if you reach into those deep and calm waters at the bottom of the ocean or this body of water and you create a stimulus, it ^{expands} ~~magnifies~~ up through the body of water many-fold, in a profound way, and is much more effective ^{touching} ~~that effecting~~ a wave on the surface on that body of water.

^{Due} The accessing of universal mind by individuals who are attempting to Back in 1973, I was an 18-year old ~~college~~ kid at a small college in The Mountains of North Carolina. I had just learned a technique for meditation

connect with that oneness of life are doing something profound on the deepest level of the ocean of universal life, ^{through accessing universal mind.} And they are creating waves of coherence and a profound ^{transition (?) Conversion} transference [transformation?] of potential throughout humanity and, indeed, throughout the Universe. The harmonics involved, even physiologically, of being in that unitive state, in that state of oneness and universal consciousness, are so profound that it effects even the plants around you, ^{what beings?} and the animals, and the Earth, and the beings, and the stars, and the far galaxies.

It is ^{one} this could be misinterpreted. But I want to share a personal experience, because it speaks to this. Back in 1973, I had just learned a technique for meditation. And I was an 18-year old college kid, and I was up in the mountains in North Carolina, this small college where I loved being because of the mountains. ^{I had just learned a technique for meditation.} And one morning, rather than going to class, I decided to engage in my real love, and that was that of spirit and consciousness, and went up into the woods behind the campus and sat amongst the giant trees in the Southern Appalachian forest and meditated, leaning against a tree, and had the most wonderful and profound transcendental meditation, ^{Samadhi} samadi [see page 173], ^{complete} complete transcendence. And when I opened my eyes, there was a semi circle of little animals, ^{one} and there was a bird and a squirrel, I think it was a woodchuck ^{and a} or chipmunk, and a couple of other animals that were in a semi-circle beside each other, sitting there looking at me, this being against the tree.

And they were attracted, not to my individuality (~~Which I don't think is that~~ ~~attractive; in fact, I find it quite repulsive quite frequently~~), but ~~were~~ ~~attracted~~ to that universality and that spirit that was being accessed and plugged into.

A hint: ^{we} the extra-terrestrial life forms are similarly attracted. And those who would like to meet these extra-terrestrial life forms, the surest and fastest and safest way to have that happen is to experience universal mind and to tap into that. Because they are attracted to a human experiencing ^{that} ~~that~~, like a bee is to a flower.

There are spiritual [↑] as well as practical [↑] reasons for that. The practical part of it should be obvious by now. ^{which is} And ~~that is~~ that they see this human has advanced into an experience of universality and therefore has tapped into the fundamental aspect of oneness that they share with each other and which they share with humans. ^{gave} And there is a tremendous sense of appreciation, and dare I use the word joy, that these extra-terrestrials evince when humans attempt to experience universality and ^{it} ~~do have~~ that happen.

I am not sure that I want this in this particular publication, but I will share that the reason that I'm involved in this entire project is because during that same time-frame, I was sitting up on a 5,000 foot mountain in the Southern Appalachian mountain range, the Blue Ridge Mountains, and I was meditating one ~~night~~ ^{evening. just as} at sunset and the stars came out and, again, had this extraordinary experience of universal mind and universality and bliss if you will. And then an extra-terrestrial spacecraft came by, and subsequently I had a very close encounter. I have no doubt in my mind that they were interested in this kid tapping into that universal transformer, ^{and} or that I think that is really exactly why they found ^{me} that interesting.

Because there is a recognition that this unity on ^{our} this planet is so profound and so far-reaching, that the only thing that will cure it will be people recognizing the true spiritual nature of themselves as universal beings. And beyond that, that ^{the} ~~that~~ experience is so fundamental to our ability to have a connection to these other non-human ^{life forms}, these extra-terrestrial life forms. The experience, therefore of universal mind is in some ^{manner} regards the beginning and the end; the alpha and the omega of being a universal citizen, an inter-planetary citizen.

There is no doubt from looking at this situation that a native person in South America or an aboriginal in Australia, having nothing more than a campfire, but who is able to identify with this spirit world, if you will, or this unbounded aspect of mind, this non-linear aspect of consciousness, will have more success at vectoring a spacecraft into their campsite and having a tête-à-tête with an extra-terrestrial, than the entire national security apparatus with billions of dollars at their disposal.

Universal mind, consciousness, non-linear existence, therefore, is the greatest prerequisite. I won't comment that ~~in May~~ we are going to have ^{a small} ~~an~~ entire 7-day retreat; it's going to be ~~small~~ ^{small}, only limited to about 20 people in Crestone, Colorado. ^{seven} It's a facility there, where we are going to spend 7 days doing nothing but ^{three six} 3 to 6 hours a day of meditation and the evenings out under the stars doing the research protocols for extra-terrestrial communication and vectoring. And the title of the retreat is "An Ambassador's Training" ⁱⁿ ambassadors to the Universe. And the reason it's ^{awkward} ~~called that is that in order to become universal citizens, it is necessary that we experience universal consciousness.~~ And by doing so, ^{this} ~~we~~ can be considered ^{begin to} ~~at least~~ at the first stage, perhaps kindergarten, of being able to ~~be in some~~ function as a bridge or liaison between humanity and these other life forms. We make a mistake in thinking that ^{only} the military leaders or political leaders or scientists will necessarily be able to fill that bridge. This is a bridge which every human can build. It is absolutely the most egalitarian and democratic process, because every human is awake. And ^{he} ~~every human is~~ capable of experiencing universal awakeness. And

Please
rewrite (it may not be pertinent to say as written)

^{uc} therefore, every human who experiences that can be, and in fact is, a universal citizen, whether or not they ever meet an extra-terrestrial biological entity.

~~I don't even know what the question is that got me started on that. But, any way, it's where it went. Sorry. Zoned out. Any other questions on the foundations for inter-planetary unity?~~

[Tape stops & starts.] . . . ~~and that, you know,~~ ^{uc} it's very important to understand that these extra-terrestrial life forms are so impressed with humans attempting to tap into something where we have a bridge to have with them, ^{that} ~~They reward that effort.~~ ^{uc} And people have asked, and many times, ^{because our} ~~in fact our~~ success has been the subject, or the cause, of a tremendous amount of debunking of our research efforts. ^{uc} ~~Because they~~ hear of expedition after expedition of CSETI teams going to ^{locations} ~~places~~ all over the world and ~~having~~ ^{coming to} spacecraft come and hover and signal and hang around. And they say, ^{uc} look, you know if you went out a thousand times you'd be lucky if it happened once, according to linear ways of looking at this. ⁴ But they are missing an important component. We are not restricted to just linear technologies; we are using beeping tones and lights and other ^{tools,} ~~things,~~ as most of you know. But we are also, as a group, achieving a state of what is called coherent thought [↑] and then sequencing a vector [→] move

to pg 342 insert

because our success
has been the subject, or the cause, of a tremendous amount of debunking of our research efforts

pattern for these spacecraft to come into a landing. ^{uc} but that takes place only after the entire group has had a prolonged and profound experience in the unitive state of oneness of mind. Now, of course, you can imagine the laughter and the debunking which various scientists and others have had over this notion. ^{uc} And the media has had a field day over this, ^(Insert)

Q: 48 Hours.

A: And of course, ultimately, you are setting yourself up for that kind of experience, but it's the truth.

And we wouldn't be doing it if it didn't seem to have extremely efficacious results. ^{uc} But it does. And it's interesting, because we have gone to areas where there have been a lot of UFO activities, but where researchers have never been able to interact with them in a deliberate way, ^{for instance} such as in Mexico. ^{four five} And within 4 or 5 days would have a half a dozen major close encounters with the ^{craft} things coming within a few hundred feet, signalling, descending, ^{doing the whole thing} And I have had people ^{have said} say, that's impossible. We have been out there dozens and dozens of times and have never even gotten to see one, or perhaps saw one at a very great distance. How is this happening?"

^{uc} And, of course, depending on where they are coming from, the temptation ^{for inst} is to say, ^{uc} well we're using these high-powered lights and this and that and what-have-you and we've been lucky. But the fact of the matter is, is that we are eliminating the space/time problem totally and also eliminating the monkey-mind problem of humanity and accessing this universal state. And by doing so, are inviting these life forms to come and say hello.

And guess what? They are coming, and they are saying hello! And so, the problem is, is that the technique is so unconventional and so far off the fringe even of what is considered acceptable scientific theory and applied research, that it seems incredible to people. And of course, the result is that we have been vilified endlessly, and I am sure will continue to be. But it simply doesn't matter; if it works, then we will do it. And it's sound; and besides it's harmless. There is no harm in sitting and meditating together. The worse that can happen is that you will get cold and you will sit and meditate together.

Q: Has anyone every had an experience with a dangerous, wild animal, where you were able to calm them through meditation?

A: Oh, yes, yes. More than once. In fact, my first experience with it was when I was quite young and was bicycling.

I admit to being a little bit eccentric. And I was bicycling through the countryside in a moonlit night with no lights on the bicycle, because that's new note (my log)

I admit to being eccentric. I was about 12 or 13 years old and I liked to bicycle in the moonlight with no lights on the bike.
So I rode blissfully out to the country &
suddenly found a place to be comfortable.
There I sat quietly
when a pack of wild dogs seized on me. By entering that stage of universal oneness
I was able to calm them through meditation, through mind and consciousness.

rewrite
 what I like doing. I like going out into the farmland outside where I grew up in North Carolina and just ~~bicycling~~ riding blissfully in the full moon, but with no lights on the bike on these deserted roads. Well, there ~~were~~ was a whole pack of wild dogs that seized on me one night, out there, doing this nonsense by myself, aged 12 or 13. And I did exactly that through mind and consciousness. I calmed them through meditation.

is
 It also ~~was~~ is very effective in the emergency department. And ~~people~~ glue laugh, but you ain't gonna believe the wild animals that come in there. And ~~we~~ glue are talking psychotic people, drunk people, people on speed, people on cocaine, people who have just been involved in shootings and stabbings, everything else you can think of. and what have you. And the ability to sort of... you can absolutely affect that situation by accessing universal mind, without medication. You don't need valium for that.

Q: Wow.

A: One can. One has. And it works.

Q: Without medication, huh?

A: Yes. You don't need a valium for that.

glue
 And that's something everyone can do. I encourage everyone to experiment with that in situations where it can be of benefit, whether you are a nurse or whatever. It is amazing.

But the extra-terrestrial life forms are intensely interested in humans who are experiencing universality. Because they know that ^{it} that is going to be not only an essential component of the spiritual transformation and the creating of a global civilization on Earth, but it is an absolute prerequisite to entering into inter-planetary relations. So, they are very interested in groups of people ~~doing this~~, or individuals doing this. And they are able to monitor it. Again, someone's ~~happening~~ into that universal state is like a seismic event going off deep in the ocean. And these life forms that ~~are~~ ~~able~~ to monitor, shall we say, sub-space, non-linear aspects of reality can frequently pick that up. ~~And particularly~~ if while you were in that state you then remote-view their spacecraft, ask to go inside, say hello, and say here's where I am and you show them ^(explain) where you are. And that is what the coherent thought sequencing technique is all about. So, ~~but~~ the prerequisite of it working is the experience of non-locality, non-linear mind, universal consciousness. ^{It} And, once again, ~~it's something~~, while having been laughed at a great deal, we remind ourselves that they laughed at Edison, also. ~~And that~~ it is important that we realize that this is not something ~~that is~~ esoteric or elite or what-have-you. It is a very natural state that any human being can access. And when they do it together in a group, ^{a phenomenon} ~~there is a phenomena~~ that occurs, where the whole is greater than the sum of the parts. And it creates a certain coherence that is very profound. ~~And then~~, if you have at least one or two people on the team

Communicate 346

who are able to remote view the spacecraft and to ~~show~~ exactly where you they will frequently arrive; are, if they're free and can come, frequently they will. It's not like they are at your beck and call all the time, for But if they are able to deploy one, the central inter-planetary command structure, which is known to us, will send one.

Q: Are you going to do a coherent thought sequencing with us this evening?

A: Well, we weren't planning to one this evening. It was later on in this program, but I guess, could we? Do you want to? OK, we can do that. Can we take a break for 10 minutes, because I need to use

(END TAPE 7, SIDE A)