I know you must have see some difficult times on all this, but I do appreciate all your work. I was never a conspiracy person until I started working on scalar electromagnetics and began seeing the potential of the theory, it implications and in following previous work, how it had been hidden by accident, ignorance and on purpose. Thankfully, there seems to be a sort of detonate limiting the use of its weapons applications, but still there are gross abuses on occasions. No mater how you look at it, there are no right hands for these weapons, but the folks that have them certainly are the wrong hands. I could design and build advanced nuclear weapons and power systems, but never see this work. Much of the Nuclear work is in the open, because it has been used in the open, but scalar magnetic weapons are far more insidious and keep peaceful use of the technology hidden.
