Dear Stephen:

This is going to be short and to the point, since I have something like six micro-seconds to get this to Fed Ex and I'm on the cusp on two other deadlines.

I've spoken at length with everyone who was around the dinner table on Saturday night. Be assured that we are all thrilled to be involved though mindful of what lies ahead. As I roll up my sleeves to pitch in, here are the highlights.

- I spoke to [REDACTED] about the pictures. He has written to you about his concerns, which I also share. I have a close contact whom I trust at NASA. He has been very helpful on my project and is extremely well networked. Larry's current project is rummaging around caves in New Mexico where he has found microorganisms that he believes parallels life on Mars. With your permission we could show him the pictures. He could give us his read there and then. If needed, he would know where to bring the pictures for further analysis - possibly Stanford - in the utmost confidentiality.

I recently interviewed [REDACTED] a Trustee of the R [REDACTED] Trusts for Animals for a documentary I'm doing on nanotechnology. Duncan's passion lies in the possibility that we will soon have the technology to regenerated species from DNA samples that are extinct or are on the verge of being so. He is eminently qualified. His analysis would be fascinating.

Also, [REDACTED] who is responsible for the organ cryno-preservation project with the Red Cross, might be a resource too if you wish to preserve specimens.

- I'm traveling to Tucson the weekend of January 28 and meeting up with Sandy ✓ Houton (sp?) and the Deans. The focus is to see how best Dan, Ralph and I might assist in the media quotient of all this.

- I'm seeing [REDACTED] next week in Los Angeles and will broach The Subject. ★ Barbara

- Connie Smith, (the woman who is co-ordinating the $80 million UN Fund for ET Spoke + last wk.
Research) and I will be meeting in Denver later on in February. Let me know how much you wish me to disclose to her about Starlight.

- Finally, Ralph mentioned that you have been taking with some producer from New Jersey. On the off- chance that his name is Sam Sherman of Independent International Pictures, please call me immediately.

I'm at a loss for language to adequately express that impact and my feelings on several levels about last weekend. I'm groping here without success. Perhaps, the best way I can express it, is by my actions. I too understand how bankrupted mere words can be.

Best Wishes
