

Subj: RE: Fwd: castaway
Date: Monday, January 29, 2001 9:24:35 AM
From: [REDACTED]
To: [REDACTED]
cc: [REDACTED]

Dear [REDACTED]

CLOSE HOLD, PLEASE.

The weapons are very real; nuclear weapons have not been the decisive weapons on earth for some time. All nuclear weapons, every ICBM, every nuclear submarine propulsion system, every nuclear bomb, all nukes in storage, and all weapons grade nuclear material of a weapon size, can be duded everywhere on earth -- all at once -- in about 10 minutes. This weapon has been deployed in Russia (not in regular forces, but under rigid KGB control) since the end of 1989. Brazil has the same kind of weaponry, as does a friendly little nation in the MidEast that does not speak Arabic.

If you are interested in such, I've followed the development and technology for years, and can send you a long write-up.

There earliest "superweapons" -- type spoken of by Khrushchev to the Presidium in Jan. 1960 -- were longitudinal EM wave interferometers. Longitudinal EM waves and beams easily pass right through the earth and ocean, and in a distant interference zone, "ordinary" EM energy is reproduced. By biasing the electrical grounds of the interferometer transmitters, one can produce either convergent EM energy (cooling) at the distant IZ, or divergent EM energy (heating). There is a published AIAS paper which proves the interferometry. Hence these earlier weapons can focus energy deep within the earth (at a fault zone to cause earthquakes), into a missile being launched or shortly after launch (launch phase anti-ICBM defense system), into a nuclear submarine deep underwater, inside a deep C4I system (e.g., Cheyenne Mountain), etc.

Those earlier weapons were used to destroy the U.S.S. Thresher in April

1963

(left all kind of specific signatures). One day later, the same weapons let go an underwater EM burst, deep under the surface, 100 miles north of Puerto Rico.

The surface of the ocean boiled, and a cone of water rose up a half-mile high, turned into the typical cauliflower, then fell back into the ocean. It was seen by a passing U.S. jetliner, whose crew reported it to the U.S. Coastguard and the FBI when they landed in Florida from Puerto Rico.

Rico.

Many of these EARLIER weapons were (LWIs) were leased to a rogue Japanese group consisting of the Aum Shinrikyo and the Yakuza, on site in Russia at the end of 1989. Since then, several aircraft have been shot down by the Yakuza with these weapons. Several earthquakes have been induced worldwide, and the weather over North America has been severely engineered.

In April 1997, the SecDef openly confirmed such electromagnetic weapons at a conference in Georgia. But the news media were so obsessed with the Clinton-Lewinsky scandal that they did not even react!

Here's the exact statement by the SecDef:

"Others [terrorists] are engaging even in an eco-type of terrorism whereby they can alter the climate, set off earthquakes, volcanoes remotely through the use of electromagnetic waves... So there are plenty of ingenious minds out there that are at work finding ways in which they can wreak terror upon other nations...It's real, and that's the reason why we have to intensify our [counterterrorism] efforts." Secretary of Defense William Cohen at an April 1997 counterterrorism conference sponsored by former Senator Sam Nunn.

Quoted from DoD News Briefing, Secretary of Defense William S. Cohen, Q&A at the Conference on Terrorism, Weapons of Mass Destruction, and U.S. Strategy, University of Georgia, Athens, Apr. 28, 1997.

Note that the SecDef DID NOT speak the words inserted in square brackets. He was referring to something more general than internal terrorists.

Once one understands LWI, it became very simple to track many of the tests -- and the state of development -- through several decades, and I did so. I even published a photo of the actual strike of such weapons, offset from U.S. shuttle launches at Cape Canaveral in latter Nov. 1985. Two weeks

later, on Dec. 12 that same weapon killed the Arrow DC-8 taking off from Gander, Newfoundland with two uses. (1) in continuous convergent interferometry mode, the weapon focused in the internal combustion of the jet engines, cooling the gases and thereby reducing thrust. (It isn't the thrust that is important, but the thrust-to-weight ratio). Reducing the thrust reduces the ratio. As the pilot lifted off, he realized his lift was far below normal, and started a slow right turn, intending to come round again and land as an emergency procedure. At that time, the weapon formed a ball of EM energy (what is called an "EM missile"), in the clouds, and moved it rapidly down to strike the aircraft in the right fuselage ahead of the engines. The actual streak of that EM missile strike was physically observed by an eyewitness,  The missile burned instantly through the fuselage and ignited the plastics in the forward part of the cabin explosively. These outgassed explosively, emitting hydrogen cyanide among other things. Several breaths, and half of the persons on board were dying of HCN poisoning. Later autopsies showed that about half the passengers were in fact dead of HCN poisoning before the aircraft struck the ground. Both recorders showed a synchronized voltage spike when the EM missile struck the aircraft. The stricken aircraft then sank to the ground, still tail-down, and exploded.

When an EM missile strikes an aircraft like that, certain reactions are created in the materials that are not in the normal literature. I furnished one such reaction to the NTSB after the TWA kill, where there is created a long-lasting radioactive isotope of the aluminum right in the strike area. The radioactivity can be detected, and the isotope can be proven by isotope composition analysis as with mass spectrometry. That is a 100% certain signature. I don't really think the NTSB believed me.

Another thing is that such a strike "time-charges" (we can completely explain this new kind of charge, and prove that it exists) the struck materials. Afterwards, for quite some time the materials emit longitudinal EM wave radiation as the time-charge decays. Living bodies exposed to such LW EM radiation incur substantial interference with their immune systems, their cellular functioning, and particularly with their cellular regenerative system -- a system studied mostly by Becker in the 1960s, and which uses the "novel" kind of EM including a dramatic extension of phase conjugate optics. We solved that problem also quite some time ago.

At any rate, some 60 or so of the ground handlers of the materials at the Arrow crash site later came down with debilitating conditions, and many are still debilitated. Everything from headaches and nausea and disequilibrium, to stomach and internal conditions, to weak muscles, tremors, etc.

At the time of the Arrow crash, the National Security Council was involved in its infamous Iran-Contra illegal activity. They immediately concluded that the Arrow crashed because of a bomb explosion, and that it was the work of Arab terrorist (our paratroopers were in the aircraft in charter, returning from peace-keeping operations in the Mid-East). They panicked at the NSC, because they feared a REAL investigation would uncover the Arab bomb cause, and the public clamor would then widen the investigation and uncover their illegal activity in the Iran-Contra affair. So extreme pressure was placed on the Canadians to wrap that thing up as an icing accident. A U.S. general hastily dispatched to the site was mostly only interested in bulldozing over the debris, etc. You probably know the rest; witnesses were intimidated, eyewitnesses (there are more than ) had their testimony derailed and withheld from the Canadian board, etc. So they buried the incident along with lots of fine men in our U.S. Army who deserved a better shake than they got from that criminal group at NSC.

Other kinds of weapons, far more advanced, are also involved including quantum potential weapons. A QP weapon can fire upon any number of linked targets, widely separated (in fact, anywhere in the universe). Whatever energy is fired from the launcher, instantly (no propagation through an intervening space, since the QP is a multiple connection in space) emerges in each and every one of the distant targets. So a launcher can fire, say a gigawatt pulse, and if connected to 10,000 targets, each of those targets will receive 1 gigawatt instantly with no time delay at all. The first test of such a weapon (gingerly) in prototype was against the U.S. air attack on Libya in April 1986 (lots of tests were in April, so the Commies could have a good May Day report). The kill of the Thresher was in April, etc.

By engineering the time domain, the mind and its operations can also be engineered. The Russians call this area "psychoenergetics", and have an elaborate deception plan to trick the West into thinking it just means "parapsychology". It doesn't. They are very far along on those weapons, and can now control any selected individual anywhere on earth, doing a technical job. The kill of Captain Button in 1996 was a demonstration milestone; they had to control a military officer doing technical work continually (flying an aircraft, e.g.) for a period of one hour. The real use was to build lots such systems and "seize" the operators and crew on site in the little nation at the QP weapon sites, stand down the weapons, then let go a full strategic strike to the U.S.

Note that this full capability to control the operators was not achieved in 1997 sufficiently to take over the crews of the QP weapon sites. It requires probably several very sophisticated LW transmitters per seized individual, and a very seasoned and experienced operator crew of some 20 to 30, to seize and "operate" one single person. But in 1996 they proved they were getting there, and therefore would have started the full development and training, etc. for later deployment in force.

The first scheduled full KGB strategic attack of the U.S. etc. with the superweapons would have occurred in Feb. 1997, but the little nation forced its abortion. I played a minor role in alerting the little nation to what was coming down. To my horror, the attack was then rescheduled for May 1, 1997. I was stunned, since obviously the QP weapons would remove Russia from the face of the earth -- or so I thought. Then I realized an obvious but stunning thing: The little nation was a sane nation, and had installed an insane C4I system. In that approach, one must observe the preparations of the enemy, wait till a decision is made, then order the strike. If the crew is alive on the QP weapon sites, they initiate launch sequence. The weapon fires at the completion of the sequence, and Russia essentially disappears from the face of the earth.

However, the "sane" C4I is easily countered. The simplest mass EM weapon against a site or a broad area is the "mindsnapper" tested twice in small versions in Afghanistan. What happens is that the local rate of time is just sharply "jerked" a bit. This instantly separates the mind from the body in every form of life in the struck area. Birds, bacteria, germs, reptiles, mammals, humans -- everything dies instantly and totally. Every cell of the body is also dead instantly. Not even a nerve cell fires after that strike. It is as if the body had been radiated for some time by gamma radiation from a Co60 source. Everything -- viruses, germs, cells, nerves, total body -- is instantly and totally dead. The struck body falls exactly like a limp dishrag, and never twitches, fires a nerve cell, nothing.

Also, the struck area is then "hot" with longitudinal EM wave emission for a protracted period (months, for a big hit, couple weeks for a small hit). Any living thing entering that radiation field, is massively jammed EM -wise at every level. The body gets dizzy, loses equilibrium goes into seizures, and falls down and dies.

So the KGB, after aborting the Feb 97 attacks, simply rescheduled the attacks by placing a huge mindsnapper attack on each QP weapon site of the friendly little nation. By instantly killing all operators and rendering the sites inhabitable for months, they could then proceed to neutralize all the nukes worldwide, destroying the U.S. strategic arsenal in 10 minutes. Then they could blast away with the LWIs at leisure, destroying almost all of the United States.

So I tried desperately to contact the little nation in "approved" ways. All failed. A former Ambassador of that country to England, whom I tried to reach, had been assassinated a week earlier. We got within five days of the actual May 1 attack. So I sat down and openly faxed the entire story to Netanyahu personally, strongly urging him to change the C4I to an "insane" control system.

An insane C2 system works like this: At a given interval (say, every two hours), the computer automatically initiates the QP launch sequence. During that sequence there is an interval where, if they are still living, the crew can punch in the code and stand down the system again. The computer then resets, and two hours later initiates launch sequence again. Etc. That counters the mindsnapper. They could still kill all the site personnel and render the site not enterable again for months. However, within two hours the weapons would still fire, and Russia would disappear from the Earth.

So we wrote up all that in a panic message to Netanyahu. They made the changes, and also let the Russians know (that was also necessary). Just about the time Secretary Cohen was making his statement in Georgia (Apr. 28, 1997), the vast KGB armada of superweapons preparing to destroy the Western World was forcibly standing down again.

I breathed much easier then, knowing that we had some time left now. However, I also knew about the psychoenergetics weapons development and testing. So shortly after May 1997, I sent a long writeup to the little nation on all that, warning them that the KGB counter to their insane C2I system was being developed for rescheduling the full strategic attacks.

Later I learned that the little nation -- possibly late that year -- ruthlessly and totally destroyed the entire complex within Russia where the "human operator control" psychoenergetics weapons were developing and deploying. It remains destroyed to this day.

Toward the end of 1999, for the new Millennium the KGB sought to give us a very eerie kind of attack, using systems our scientists have absolutely no knowledge of. It is possible to build a complete functioning "system" of longitudinal EM waves with their associated time-energy waves. This can be understood in general relativity or in $O(3)$ higher symmetry electrodynamics. It does not even appear in the standard $U(1)$ EM model. But I also had worked out the general concepts for building such weapons. These "robot" systems (made of causal spacetime curvatures and their dynamics) can travel "inside" the LW structure comprising all EM waves, potentials, and fields by Whittaker 1903 and 1904. So they can be introduced directly into the EM of the power lines, radio stations, command and control communications, etc. Or they can just go through mass at will, since mass is widely separated particles, with the vast spaces between being filled with EM potentials, fields, and waves. So the earth and ocean are just vast superhighways for such robots.

It is extraordinarily difficult to make the first robot of a given kind.

Thereafter, millions can be made for pennies each. Just insert the robot inside a normal signal, and record that signal on any medium (which also records the internal robot perfectly -- "clones" it, if you will). You can build all system functions -- command and control, communications (by LWs), and by LW interferometry you can build in weapons system capabilities.

The hundreds of puzzling underground facilities that the Russians kept right on building, at great effort and expense, after their economy collapsed, was the research and development centers, factories, manning and operating personnel, and command and control centers for this vast armada of new strategic forces. That's why our satellites and their analysts could never figure out what was going on in those facilities.

In latter 1999, they sent in several million of those LW robot systems, deployed throughout the U.S. Since I was apparently the only person in the U.S. who would even recognize attack by such a weapon, they also used one to strike me right from my computer. They deliberately held it to 10 seconds, rather than the 30 required for total kill, but I was very hard hit and it took some days to recover. However, I did recognize what had hit me, as the KGB knew I would. So I notified the little guys, and they promptly handled the situation.

Fortunately, those robots were the first models, and had little or no countermeasures. Imagine the LW "space" inside all matter as a special kind of atmosphere, and one using a special kind of "LW radar". Without stealth measures, the first generation robots were as easily detected as if they were big bombers in the midst of lots of excellent radars. So the little guys detected them, and destroyed them in place -- INSIDE THE EM FIELDS, WAVES, AND POTENTIALS ALL ACROSS THE U.S. It was a piece of cake for the

"little guys". The NEXT generation of those robots will not be such a piece of cake, because they will have countermeasures including stealth measures. The "measure versus countermeasure" game is always with us.

They also gave the U.S. a stimulus, to see if our guys had the foggiest notion of what was up. They sent in some robots into some of our highly protected government computer systems (piece of cake, they went in "right inside" all the "protection features"). Then by interferometry they created some normal EM and functioning in those computers, so our guys would then detect that. (All they know is normal electromagnetics, so you have to give them that for them to even detect anything!). They detected it, and also detected (this was the stimulus) the fact that these "hackers" were apparently the Russian Academy of Science! Then the robots ceased the interferometry, whereupon to our guys the "signals all vanished and the viruses were gone or could not be located". By their reaction, they assured the Russian KGB that they knew nothing at all about what was coming down.

So had things gone as planned by the KGB, we would have had a Y2K problem that would curl one's hair! Just about everything in the U.S. that is electrical and electronic would have failed.

So a major strategic war was fought and won at the last few days of 1999 and the first few days of 2000, and the entire U.S. scientific and intelligence communities knew absolutely nothing at all about it.

Note that, during all these things, I was sending information to the Senate Intelligence committee and the corresponding subcommittee in the House. No one believed any of it.

I did get back an innocuous message from the "little guys", after the robot affair, that really said, "Hey, thanks a bunch! We had missed that one!")

There are some other weapons also in development, of different types, but this gives you the flavor of what has actually been going on for some time. The U.S. scientific community and intelligence community are hopeless out of it. They don't even seem aware that the old classical EM theory -- put together in 1964-5 -- is horribly mangled. They refuse to straighten out the mess, even though eminent scientists such as Nobelist Feynman and the great John Wheeler have pointed out that the "field" as defined in classical EM cannot and does not exist in spacetime.

They also do not realize that we are going to be destroyed by the escalating energy crisis, which will only get worse. This is deliberately being used so as to approach economic collapse of the world economies. As their economies start to crumble (collapse would be about 1998, if other factors do not intervene and make it sooner), the desperate nations' conflicts will increase immensely, and they are going to unleash all the weapons of mass destruction. In short, we are going to get -- about 1997 -- the long-feared great Armageddon and the destruction of civilization itself.

It doesn't make a damn what they think, or what cushy position they have. It's happening right under their noses, and all one can see is the "ostrich" complex.

It's very sad. $50 million will solve the energy crisis for all time. It will start getting us off the massive use of hydrocarbons. The cottonpicking scientific community and power industry is so out of it that they do not even know what powers a circuit. They apparently cannot even track the energy transductions and dissipations in a battery or a generator. They are still using basically the same approach to power that was worked out in the 1880s -- before the discovery of the electron, atom, and nucleus, when "charge" just meant "piece of electric fluid" like a cubic centimeter, when the material ether theory assumed there was no such thing as mass-free space, when the concept of energy flow through space was just being born, when the "electron lateral precession" in a wire was not known because the electron was not known, and scientists thought that their measured electron lateral precession proved the transverse EM wave in the vacuum (the plucked taut string wave assumed by Faraday and maintained by Maxwell).

It's sad and it's pathetic. Yet so powerful is the entrenched dogma, that the U.S. scientific community will still be doing business as usual when their own families die from the WMD strikes, and so do they. They will STILL be smugly sure that "you can't do that!"

Anyway, that gives you just a little bit of the picture. Let me know if you want a longer summary paper on those weapons and the other kinds involved. We no longer control our own fate, and we have not controlled it since 1976.

A very unsettling thing is that the Red Chinese have had LWIs for some decades, and they are also either just getting QP weapons or are very close to doing so. That is a gravely destabilizing factor that is emerging. Also, the MidEast Arabs (such as Iraq) are planning a nuclear and WMD war. Read Lunev's book to see how the Russians easily brought in clandestine nuclear weapons and placed them in our big population centers. All the U.S. big centers are already primed for destruction, whenever the goons give the word and the triggers are pulled.

Also, check my website [REDACTED] for some information in the glossary on Causal System Robots (CSRs).

Cheers,

[REDACTED]

-----Original Message-----

[REDACTED] [REDACTED] [REDACTED]

[REDACTED] Monday, January 29, 2001 9:17 AM

[REDACTED] . [REDACTED]

[REDACTED] ; [REDACTED]

Subject: Re: Fwd: castaway

[REDACTED]

[REDACTED]

[REDACTED]

[REDACTED]