[REDACTED] & Ted -

I wanted to get back to you with regard to Stephen Lovekin's credentials. I have gone as far as I can with available research out of military records in St. Louis and here is the summary:

- 1) Clearly, we have established Lovekin's credentials for his work in the White House Signaling Agency. The dates of service conform to the documents you have posted on the Disclosure Web Site.
- 2) From August, 1961 to 1964, he joins an Army Reserve outfit in Indiantown, Pa., though he may not have been stationed there, his record is sent there. On 9/15/63 - he is on stand-by status as a Sergeant, according to his record in St. Louis, Mo.
- 3) In February, 1964, - January 31, 1965 he is transferred to the Salisbury, N.C. Army #991 Transportation Unit. Lovekin graduates from Catawba College, B.A., (which is located in Salisbury, N.C.) in 1964 and goes to Wake Forest University Law School, graduating in 1967. So, we know that he is in N.C. all of this time, at least through 1967, and he admitted to the N.C. Bar in 1968. He is most likely in the US Army Reserves at this time which usually consists of one weekend a month and two weeks during the summer.
- 4) The record ends February 1, 1965. There is no record after this time of him being in the Army Reserves or any National Guard unit, specifically in North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia, Virginia, and Pennsylvania. There is no specific JAG unit in Illinois; the HQ is in Washington and there is no record of Lovekin having served in any JAG unit.
- 5) As I mentioned before in a previous email, the documents on the Disclosure website with regard to "United States Service Command," where Lovekin is referred to as a BG are not US Government Military documents. Moreover, the "United States Service Command" is not a legitimate US Government Military designation. This group that calls themselves the "United States Service Command" is a religious based organization formed to help people in disaster situations. Their main office is in Chicago at a church. I would be curious to know if [REDACTED] secretary, Sandy, was actually going to a ceremony where Lovekin might have been given as designation as a BG within this group, which is NOT a bona fide US Military promotion. Furthermore, we have been unable to locate any "70th Regiment" in the National Guard in North Carolina (there is a 70th Regiment in Maryland).
- 6) As my military researcher [REDACTED] pointed out to me, "if Lovekin was a legitimate Brigadier General, there would be copious documentation to that effect as well as documentation for his entire career as an officer (Lieutenant, Captain, Major, Colonel, and finally Brigadier General). There is nothing that could be located that would certify his service beyond being a Sergeant as of 2/1/65.
- 7) Now, all of this information was received through a FOIA search, using his service #RA [REDACTED]. A complete release of his service records can only be accessed with Steve Lovekin's permission which I think at this point should be asked for.

Please let me know if you have any further input on this matter. I find this somewhat discouraging, if it means what I think it means - that [REDACTED] has falsely misrepresented himself with regard to his military ranking. And if, in fact, he did do this, then his testimony with regard to his UFO experience becomes all the more suspect. I am not saying that it is not accurate (because I sense that it is), but now his credibility has been damaged (if the above research is accurate, and I think it is). Of course, if Lovekin would sign off to have his full record released, then we would know for sure.

I am curious as to your reactions. Please advise. Thanks.
