

Re: ET Strategy

Dear [REDACTED] think the key is to normalize the experience. there are billions of galaxies. There should be statements from authoritative sources before the public disclosures which let people know that it is probable that there are E.T. That of course we would not expect to be alone in the universe. That these beings may have a great deal to teach us, etc. I think that key people who have seen UFO's who are credible should begin making public statements about their experiences, thereby normalizing the information. I don't remember the exact statistic but a good majority of Americans believe both in ET's and the Resurrection and the Second coming! It is the intellectuals who will be most distressed! Let me know what happens.

Love, [REDACTED]
