

[REDACTED]

From: [REDACTED]
To: [REDACTED]
Sent: Friday, January 13, 2006 11:58 AM
Attach: [REDACTED]
Subject: [REDACTED]

Steve, Any changes, shall I tell her to send it on or change somethings? Am gone all afternoon helping my son

[REDACTED]

In a message dated 1/12/06 1:52:40 PM, [REDACTED] writes:

Dear [REDACTED]

I was furious when I read the blog from [REDACTED] and I am going to send him the following email. Please let me know if you think I should include anything else. The certificates and letters we have on our walls from the White House for Steve are matted and framed and I would have to take them apart to copy. I look forward to hearing a response from you.

Thank you,
[REDACTED]

Dear Mr [REDACTED]

I recently read your article on "[REDACTED]" and I find it quite amusing that you would make such allegations on someone you don't even know. [REDACTED], the attorney in Hickory, North Carolina is the same man who was in the White House with President Dwight D. Eisenhower and Kennedy. Our office has letters signed by [REDACTED] military aide to the President awarding Specialist Four [REDACTED] The White House Service Certificate on June 1, 1960 for Honorable Service in the The White House. We also have a certificate from White House Army Signal Agency presented to Stephen L. Lovekin in recognition of outstanding performance of duty with this organization servicing the President of the United States, May 9, 1959 - August 12, 1961. This is signed by [REDACTED] I also have other documentation of when Mr. Lovekin became a Brigadier General and it makes me sick that someone like you makes light of Mr. Lovekin's accomplishments. If it is any of your business the military lost [REDACTED] records some time ago in a fire. Many other individual military records were lost during this fire as well. So, M [REDACTED] before you start questioning someone's credibility you need to know what you are talking about and I for one can tell you that you don't! I think you owe him an apology.

Sincerely,
[REDACTED]

1/14/2006