

How to use our minds (higher mind) and develop better understanding (wisdom)

Mechanist's see only one side, Mystic's see only the other side, functionalist's see both sides a balanced view, and the next step is awareness and Knowing, the balanced-state of these is the Christed state of mind. Any lower state is a Christ awareness level.

If we were to give colors to the above concepts. Mechanist would be red light, mystic violet light, functional green light or magenta light (red and violet opposite of green), Knowing black light and awareness white light Christed mind clear light.

When you mix colors or put one color filter in front of another you get black. If you reflect colors to one spot or shine colors from different filters they add to make white light.

colors come from Black and white light mixing not from a prism. Take a camera put a red filter in front of the lense then take a picture on black and white film then repeat with out moving the camera but put a violet filter in front of the lense develop the black and white films and place them in a slide projector (you will need two projectors one slide in each) focus both picture on the screen together so that it look like one picture. it will still be black and white. Now put the filters back in front of the projector lenses and the picture will be in full color now. Read THE AMATEUR SCIENTIST June 1979 Scientific American. On Edwin Land's method of getting color out of black and white by Jearl Walker.

Let us use this type of thinking on a few problems.

Page 216 ETHER, GOD AND DEVIL, COSMIC SUPERIMPOSITION by WILHEM REICH

The division of living organisms into male and female individuals remains mysterious even from the stand point of orgone physics.

Awareness and knowing says it seems that all things are male and female sodium might be male and chlorine female , therefore they are very active when coming together but discharge to become table salt. Hydrogen and oxygen male and female explode to discharge to become water. If we call positive atoms male and negative atoms female we maybe better able to understand nature.

Now lets see how this holds up under examination later experimentation will be needed.

Even if you use tea leaves to get a right answer 99 out of a hundred times which could be better than any known scientific method. you still have to test it scientifically(run a experiment). Still you will not know for sure for you may have a experiment only you can repeat , but let us assume that every one that tries the experiment allso can do it. This still does not prove that you are right for your mind may have made it hapen for every on

With this in mind let us now go on. If a cell devides it should after division have a little more positive charge on one side and a little more negative on the other side. Since we find it hard to beleive that both devide perfectly. After traveling through the enviroment one cell then wou accumulate more of one charge while the other more of the opposite charge By the fact likes attract likes and opposites repell. This would make one cell more male and the other cell more female. After the cells have enoug energy they form ether winds which allow oppsite to suck together then male attracts female to discharge.

Read THE ACIENT MYSTERIES BY PHILIP CALLAHAN order from Acres USA PO Box 9547, Raytown , Missoure 64133.

Callahan uses the research on monopoles interperated from Dr. Freeman Cope he showed that likes attracted likes and unkikes repell in the basic creation of matter.

At ether partical level female attracts female and male attracts mal As larger particals come to geather(grow) wortex winds in the ether which make one think unlikes attract and likes repell. For example energy comes from the north pole and south pole of a proton and go to the equator when this energy is sucked in but in the electron it moves from the equator to the poles this is a vortex theory. In this case the winds from the equator of the electron will be pulled toward the vacuume of the postive equator in the proton.

The direction of the spin of a partical will also determine weather the particals will repell or atract such as two electrons pairing up.

The heat and the cold of a sun and its planet will form sucking in and expanding out of ether winds which could add to part of the gravity force. The contracting ether of our ionisphers will pull highly charged negative clouds(high in orgone energy) up toward the ionisphere. While poluted postive ion clouds then will be pulled towards the earth. Because of there low orgone charge(like charge) the clouds start to fall apart because thsy have lost there attractive force, and levation force.

Now a functional thinker will try to unite these ideas so we can understand the new ideas.

The mechanistic thinker will make machines from them. The mystic will try to understand God better with these ideas. This is assuming that the functional, mechanistic, and the mystic thinker has all the blockages removed so he can function in his field best. We should not try to change these people for their area of thinking is just as important.

Another example If the atom is like a bubble and the universe is like a large bubble with black and white holes and using the latest theory that there is another universe inside of ours spinning the other way. The machine mind will dissect the universes and the atom. the mystic will add more than is real to any one by mind. The function thinker may say maybe there are 7 universes just as an atom has seven shells and since energy goes in the black hole and out the white hole (our central sun of the galaxy) Then maybe The electrons in our atoms are white holes and the area that electrons can not be or the dark line in the spectrum of light are the black holes. The above would also include some awareness and knowing thought.

Christ awareness, would say I see that the following is so, but still needs to be made physical so a functionally aware person can make use of it in his physical world. A Christ awareness knows all things are already in existence, and that there can be nothing less than God or zero and nothing more than God or infinity And then since there can be nothing more or less than God or infinity than even God could not create anything therefore every thing always has been and always will be.

In an infinite universe of universes even if you believed yourself into nonexistence some day after a long time the law of probability will put you together again or another more advanced being would recreate you. Since any distance from a point on an infinite line is an infinite distance from the beginning. Then this has already happened an infinite number of times which will ~~initiate self~~ ^{itself} qualify the following statements believing in them or not.

When hot gas mass the weight of the earth escapes from the sun the shell cools the high speed of the spin of the planet along with the contraction of this shell will make a hole in the poles and throw this mass out the top and bottom pole new cooling will take place inside forming a new shell. A planet can have up to 7 hollow spheres inside to being a solid mass. just as a star can die into 7 layers.

Since the outer surface is the coldest it can form a crystal therefor our planet is a geodesic crystal and has 12 crossing major sectors

In other universes of other dementions you can have flat ~~planets~~ and square ~~planets~~. ~~Then~~ you can see the atom is also a universe. ~~planets~~

Since our universe as it is now has 7 universes ours is the outer universe and the white holes are energy coming from the center or up hill energy the winding up of the clock (like orgone energy). The black holes are the down hill energy (DOR going back to be recharged and sent out as white holes. On the way through the different levels change the energy 7 times so a atom (ATUM) has 7 shells, a crystal 7 basic shapes , Music 7 notes, etc. When the eight universe is compleated you will have 8 instead of 7. Any number of shells can be added but in this universe only 7 will be stable. But with the power of the mind and aproval of the creator (changer) any number of shells can be made stable knowing the new laws.

MEDITATION IS NOT WRONG only how you use it is important. Even hypnosis is ok if it is use to give you back your free will which has been taken away by TV, radio, paper(advertisments), movies, etc. Even Reich Page 95 ETHER GOD AND DEVEL , COSMIC SUPERIMPOSITION, said I myself have worked out a whole series of functional equations during twilight sleep. Today we would say Reich was in alpa or theta wave, a meditative state. but in meditation one tries to controal this state. Not all sleeping persons can stay aware while sleeping often enough to be of value.
