thank you very much for your message and opportunity to express some old information and feelings I had in Russia.

There is really good opportunity now to choose a path for good and peaceful constructive and positive cooperation between this country, Russia, China, India and others in use of similar technologies and more advanced and to defeat dark destructive forces whatever name they have now and wherever they are, in politics, science or spiritual realm.

A little about myself: I am Boris Yaroslavtsev, an architect and a little psychic remote viewer and healer from Novosibirsk, Siberia, Russia. I moved to the USA in 1996 and live now with my family in Kent, WA, work as design engineer at a store fixture company. My phone number: (206) 870-8558.

I know a little about Art Bell show through my associate Ken Johnston who took part in it some time ago with Richard Hoagland. And I also met Peter Davenport, one of the Seattle ufologists.

I wasn't an insider at Kaznacheev's research institute, but I knew some his "viewers" through our Buddhist center of Kagyu Lineage which I helped to organize in 1992. Those guys were happy, friendly, full of energy after they left Kaznacheev.

I would like to put an important remark about general situation with research facilities busy with mentioned technologies applied in destructive oppressive purposes. There is an opinion among some scientists that a certain natural law exists in this area: if one or another laboratory starts to develop only negative application of what it has a life period of such facility is usually short. Employees start become ill, resign, be in various accidents and even die - without any physical reason and basis. The loose their interest in job and a laboratory usually finishes its functioning. If to believe in scientists' folklore.

What Kaznacheev did was only more broad and publicly surfaced research in an area well known all the time before and secrete: all kind of spiritual phenomenon not only survived a domination of the Orthodox church, but was an integral part of military training of Russian war lords and peasant reservists and simply rural life before 1917. Aristocrats being usually army leaders learned from childhood how to use spiritual power to fight an enemy, survive where it barely possible and even kill remotely. The last was extremely restricted by rules and applied only in wartime and only there were no other opportunity to win. And it might not work properly on an enemy, there were no guaranty. Later under soviets it was put on technological ground and if to trust to one of the latest Russian books there existed underground classified research facility by Vladimir during the W.W.II.

So, Kaznacheev started his set of experiments on an already developed basis sometime in the end of 80-th. He was smiling often on TV propagating his "new" theory of human consciousness origin. He traveled all around the world gathering all available information from Asian religious and yoga lineages. I met him once at a religious conference in Novosibirsk. Later the KGB (under its old name) pulled his institute under its financing and very soon Kaznacheev changed, looked older and unhappy. He lost all his associates very quickly and even spoke about it complaining on local TV. People left him, idea died. I left Russia that time and don't know his up-to-day situation. Result was fast and inevitable.

There are other scientists and researchers who really moved this area further and posses fantastic technology and results, not in military or any destructive purpose.

As to my knowledge all available potential of psychics in Russia and also, probably, psychotronic technology is used for political purposes inside the country. A so-called "astral intelligence and counterintelligence" work day and night using human operators and, probably, very sophisticated devices as a support. But I think there are different rules of this "game" on international area which have been followed by Russian secrete services.

Where is your information about unfortunate American ambassadors to Russia come from?

Sometime ago, soviet mass media gave a material as a nonsense that a Reagan's private astrologer was under influence of permanent soviet psychic attack in order to provoke wrong predictions. So it looks like one of the sides of this realm.

I would like to answer your questions if you have such.

With my best regards,
