Hello, I have three things I want to share with you.

First, in the late 1990's around the time of the Phoenix lights, my husband and I witnessed an unusual site in the North Western sky from North Palm Beach Florida. It was visible for several days. What we saw was a triangular grouping of shiny orbs. They usually looked orangey from the setting sunlight. I also call them orbs because they were too far away to see any type of detail, this is the best description I can give. At least one other person saw these as well.

I understand this is not ground breaking, but you can add this to your data base in case anyone else comes forward with information from this part of the country.

Second, I was married to a Civilian Aerospace Engineer for the Air Force at Pratt Whitney for 7 years. He was in Secret projects and his last "published" level was [REDACTED]. It is probable that he actually reached higher in the last years of his career before retirement. It is probable that he has had his memory wiped although our son has had conversations that were revealing. Then his father would suddenly bolt upright and change the subject. My son believes that the current wife is a handler. I remember several trips to Colorado Springs and Nevada during our time together. I don't know if he would be inclined to talk, but since the law passed in December that you spoke of, perhaps he would. I know he was concerned about his pension. My son might be willing to share the contact information.

Third, my father was an Electrical Engineer and was in the Air Force for radio communication operations. After his passing, I am one of the few people who went through his shop cleaning out the years of accumulation. I was left with the bulk of this task. I had sifted through the photos he processed in his hobby darkroom several times, I don't know how I missed the picture the first few times, but one day, I found one that shocked me. I am attaching it below.

There are additional incidents that tell me my father's jobs were not what they seemed to be. There was a storage box that contained radio tubes and tools for repairing radios issued by the Air Force. I felt an urgent need to get rid of this and wanted to do so in a way I could guarantee it would be destroyed. I was working at the Home Depot at the time and had planned to put it into the compactor. A short time after I arrived for my shift in the Garden Department where I stashed the toolbox until I could get it into the dumpster, a Black Helicopter began circling the Garden of Home Depot. I was stunned by this. I managed to capture a couple of photos and short video of the helicopter before it left. I decided to destroy the box back at home. This was January 2017

There was another Black Helicopter incident at our home. My husband and a friend, a retired police officer for North Palm Beach were doing a repair on the shop my father had built. There was a box added to the outside of the building where the electric service entered the building. When they removed it, they were puzzled by some unusual electronic devices. However, after they were removed, a black helicopter appeared and began circling again. It left after circling several times. This happened in April of 2019 and I have a picture of the device, not the helicopter, unfortunately.

There is a lot of strangeness around my father and my former husband. These are only what I think would be of interest in your endeavors.

Best Regards,
[REDACTED]
